A Tale Of Murder

Youths Tell Of Slaying 7 During Spree In 6 States

Pair Joke About Their Crime Wave

Army Companions Are Picked Up At Roadblock In Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) —Two calm teen-agers, swapping quips about the electric chair, offhandedly spun a tale Sunday of murder in half a dozen states.

"It didn't seem to bother them one way or the other," said Colorado Sheriff W. H. Terill. "I mean, no more than what you'd think about going out and shooting a rabbit."

The two, George R. York and James D. Latham, said there had been those two women in Florida, that man in Louisiana, the man in Tennessee, two men in Illinois, one in Kansas, then that girl in Colorado.

They reckoned it eight people, six states, eight notches carved in the handle of one of their pistols.

Except that the man in Louisiana—they only learned this last weekend—survived.

Terrill was one of the law officers who talked Sunday with York, 18, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Latham, his 19-year-old Army chum from Mauriceville, Tex. So did two men from the Kansas Bureau of Investigation. So did FBI agents. To all, the AWOL youths talked freely and willingly signed statements.

The two are held, under $10,000 bond apiece, on federal vehicle theft charges.

"They talked as if they might have robbed a peanut machine," said one law officer who questioned them. "There wasn't any remorse. They even laughed at some of their victims."

Sheriff Terril agreed.

"They joked about the death penalty," he said. "One said to the other he'd have to go first to that hot seat. The other said, 'No, we'll both go together.' "

York and Latham were arrested Saturday, at a roadblock west of Salt Lake City, in a bright red car which had belonged to one of the victims.

Here's the chronology, as officers pieced it together:

May 27—Edward J. Guidroz, 43, was slugged with a wrench and left for dead beside a graveyard near Baton Rouge, La. Motive robbery. He survived, though he is hospitalized in critical condition. Sunday night from his hos-

Cumberland Expects Light Vote Tuesday

Incumbent Mayor Faces Opposition In Bid For 6th Term

NEW CUMBERLAND — A "light" turnout at the polls is forecast for the community's biennial election Tuesday. The unofficial number of eligible voters is 1,202.

Voters will elect a mayor from two candidates, and fill seats on Town Council from three wards. Two are unopposed for election as Council members.

The mayoralty candidates are Mayor Albert (Jakie) Fuccy, seeking a sixth consecutive term, and James I. Cullen, local barber.

Mayor Fuccy is favored to sweep another two-year term. He operates the Fuccy Hauling & Excavating Co. He is married and has four sons.

Candidates for the four - year term as Council member from Ward I are Nicholas Nardo, who has served 22 years, and Raymond L. Bailey, former fire chief.

Mrs. John Paul Jones is unopposed for election as Council member from Ward III. She will become the first of her sex to serve on the six-member Council and will receive a four-year term.

Charles B. Davis Jr. is unopposed for election as Council member from Ward II.

Also at stake in the non-partisan election is a proposal to extend for two years the present levy which expires in 1961 for operation of the fire department, playgrounds and Community House. The proposed rates are 5 cents on Class I property, 10 cents on Class II, and 20 cents on Class IV. The levy requires 60 per cent of the total vote for approval.

Polls will be open from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

There are 549 eligible voters in Precinct 14, 364 in Precinct 13, and 289 in Precinct 12. A total of 613 voted in the last municipal election in 1959.

The polling sites are Squire John D. Herron's office for Ward I, Brown office for Ward II, and the Finnicum Garage for Ward III.

Barron Drafts Plans For Special Session

CHARLESTON (AP) — Gov. Barron had a date this afternoon with members of House and Senate Rules committees to discuss legislation he will propose to a special session of the West Virginia legislature, beginning Wednesday.

Sources close to Barron have indicated that the governor may be worried about support for some parts of his program, to be built primarily about public welfare proposals.

After a meeting last Wednesday with Public Assistance Director W. Bernard Smith, some lawmakers reportedly had some doubts about a proposed expansion of emergency public works projects.

Board Plans New Inquiry In Job Exam

The Municipal Civil Service Commission will meet tonight at 8 at City Hall to conduct a second inquiry into anonymous charges raised in connection with an examination it is scheduled to hold to fill a clerk-stenographer's post in the city income tax department.

Clarence E. Reagle, a member of the three-man commission, said Donal I. Burcham, chairman, will request the attendance of three of the principal figures — Treasurer Bert A. Dawson, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson and Mrs. Ginger Hile, an employe of the office who is one of the 12 applicants for the test — and Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, the board's legal advisor.

The test was to have been held tonight, but after an initial investigation Thursday afternoon the board ordered it postponed indefinitely until "rumors and propaganda" could be cleared up.

The board received an anonymous typewritten note charging that Wilkinson turned over to Mrs. Hile a copy of questions he had prepared as a guide to the commission in drafting the exam. Wilkinson denied the allegation and said no one except himself saw the questions before he turned them over to P. K. Calhoon, clerk of the commission.

Burcham and Reagle said Thursday the commission had drafted its own test questions and did not plan to use any of the material submitted by Wilkinson.

Dawson, overall head of the department, said he acted at the commission's request in asking Wilkinson to submit material on the duties of the clerk-stenographer's post. But he said he did not ask the tax commissioner to draft sample questions — only job data that would be helpful to the commission in preparing its own test.

Reagle said the commission probably will set a new exam date at its meeting tonight.

For the past several years the commission purchased tests—and

Nothing New, U.S. Says Of Red Proposal

Latest Soviet Plan On Germany Fails To Win Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk says it's obvious the United States does not agree with the latest Soviet proposals on Germany and Berlin.

Rusk told newsmen Sunday night "anything involving Germany and Berlin is something that will have to be discussed with other governments." Other U. S. officials reported consultations would proceed with Britain and France, the two other West Berlin occupation powers, and with West Germany and others.

President Kennedy will bring up the Soviet proposals when he meets at the White House today with Italian Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani. Italy is one of America's North Atlantic allies.

The Soviet proposals were contained in a memo which Moscow made public Saturday. The Soviets had handed the memo to U.S. officials at Vienna a week ago following Kennedy's meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

U. S. officials said the memo generally restated in written form what Khrushchev had told Kennedy. They said the memo basically was a reoffering of previous Soviet proposals which the West has rejected.

Khrushchev called for an immediate peace conference on Germany. The conference would write a peace treaty to fix Germany's irrevocable borders, make West Berlin a demilitarized "free city," end the allied occupation of Berlin and turn over control of its lifelines to the East German Communists.

If the West does not want an immediate conference on Germany, Khrushchev said, then West and Communist East Germany should work out a settlement themselves in six months.

Area's Humid Spell To Stay

Mercury May Reach 90 This Afternoon

Here's that warm weather everyone was asking for last winter when there was a foot or more of snow on the ground.

But it's a mixed blessing—mixed with high humidity, that is!

The hot, humid weather that gripped the district Sunday will continue today and Tuesday, the Ohio forecaster said. But there's a chance of scattered thundershowers both this afternoon and again Tuesday afternoon.

Although rain might drive down the temperature, it also would raise the humidity, which already stands at uncomfortable highs. The weatherman used the same two words "warm and humid," to describe the outlook for both today and tomorrow.

Yesterday's sunny, hot weather provided an ideal setting for family outings. Parks and pools were crowded for the second consecutive weekend.

The Stratton Super-dam recorded a high of 86 degrees at 4 p. m. and again at 7. The overnight low was 68. The rapid cooling produced heavy early morning fog throughout the valley area.

Body's Found On Tip From Man In Jail

Stark County Holds Ex-West Virginian In Bizarre Story

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Stark County sheriff's deputies today were holding a former West Virginia man in connection with a mysterious murder of a man who remains unidentified.

Deputies went to Moundsville, W. Va., last night to get Wilford Burge, who was jailed there for failure to pay an 8-month-old fine of $15 for drunkenness. In jail, the Moundsville police chief said Burge told this story:

About four months ago he saw two men kill Ernest Eggert with a hatchet and then bury him in the basement of his farm home near East Canton, a quarter-mile from U. S. 30. Burge said the two men were Negroes.

Moundsville officers notified Stark County Sheriff W. J. Hine of Burge's story Saturday night. Deputies went to the house and found a body buried in a pit in a garage.

The partly decomposed body was taken to the Cuyahoga County coroner's office in an effort to determine its identity. But officials in Cleveland said no identity had been established.

Officers know that the house had been occupied by Eggert for several years and it may be that he was the victim. He has no close friends or any known relatives the sheriff's office has been able to learn about.

Two deputies brought Burge to Canton late last night after he waived extradition from West Virginia. He underwent questioning to determine the truth of his story.

Burge was quoted by Moundsville Police Chief George Hinerman as saying that after he witnessed the murder, he took Eggert's car and drove to Lisbon, Ohio.

He was arrested there for not having a driver's license, Burge said, and spent 45 days in jail. After completing the sentence, he said he returned to the Eggert home and lived there until he went to Moundsville recently.

Under Bright Skies

30,000 Jam Park At Potters' Picnic

The imaginary honorary membership the picnic committee of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters conferred on the Ohio weatherman a few years ago has paid off handsomely.

More dividends were received Saturday as near-perfect weather greeted an estimated 30,000 attending the 33rd annual Potters Picnic at Meyers Lake Park in Canton.

After Friday's rain, which continued until early Saturday morning, the picnic committee had its fingers crossed as overcast skies greeted "early birds."

But as the big crowds began arriving at noon, a bright sun broke through and continued to beam down on the picnickers the remainder of the day. The temperature was in the mid-70's as the traditional baby show got the program under way and rose to 83 by the time of the "junior bathing beauty" contest" a few hours later. But a gentle breeze kept the heat from being oppressive.

TERMING IT one of the most successful picnics, the committee estimated the crowd at 30,000 but were told by park officials that it might have reached 32,000. The record of 35,000 was set in the 1959 affair, also held at Meyers Lake.

The midway's biggest crowd was registered between 1 and 5, with rides and concessions kept busy and many other potters, families and friends taking advantage of park benches and shade trees to rest and reminisce. The amusements received their biggest workout between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m., when all rides were free.

Highlighting the formal program were a huge baby show in which East Liverpool youngsters captured all but two of the nine prizes and a "junior bathing beauty contest" in which several hundred more youngsters participated.

MORE THAN 250 youngsters ranging up to 3 were entered in the competition as the indoor baby show got under way.

Entrants and their mothers were seated in three huge circles on the floor of the dancing pavilion as nurses from Molly Stark Sanitarium in Canton narrowed down the field and finally made their selection of the three winners in each age group — up to 1, 1-2, and 2-3.

East Liverpool children captured first places in all three divisions. In the up to 1 grouping, Johnny Viscoglosi, 8 - month - old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Viscoglosi of N. Surry Rd., was judged the winner, while William Dean Allen, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Dean Allen of

Soviets Yield Minor Point; Talks Go On

Pro-Reds Will Let Truce Team Visit In Laos Situation

GENEVA (AP) — The Western nations returned to the East-West conference on Laos today after winning a comparatively meaningless concession from the Soviets.

The International Control Commission also reported it had appealed to the rival factions in Laos to get truce teams to the scene of reported fighting. The pro-Communist rebels previously had refused, but one report said a team now would be allowed to visit Padong, which Pathet Lao troops took from the royal government's forces Wednesday.

The Soviets agreed to join the British in another appeal to the warring factions in Laos to stop the sporadic fighting and cooperate with the International Control Commission.

The Soviets and British, co-chairmen of the conference, made a similar appeal April 24, before the cease-fire was proclaimed.

At American insistence, leaders of the Western delegations had said earlier they would not take up the talks again until there was an effective cease-fire.

One Western diplomat said it was a concession on the part of the Soviets to admit the cease-fire is not effective in Laos. Some

Four Are Swept To Death In Niagara Falls Tragedy

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP)—Four persons died Sunday night when a small motorboat carrying them on an outing capsized in the rapids above Niagara Falls and plunged over the edge.

Two women and a man were swept over the brink of the cataract and dashed into the mass of rocks and churning water 162 feet below.

The other man was sucked through the intake of a power plant.

Killed were George Stewart, 49, a druggist from Ridgeway, Ont.; his wife, Jean, 44; and Stanley Tessman and his wife, Gladys, of 252 Leroy Ave., Buffalo, N.Y.

Crowds of sightseers at the famous tourist attraction watched in helpless horror as the tragedy began to unfold two miles up the Niagara River.

The boat, apparently hit by engine trouble, drifted through a gate of the Ontario hydrocontrol dam which stretches more than halfway across the river from the Canadian side.

In all the history of the falls, only one person is known to have survived an accidental plunge over the brink—a boy who fell over last year.

Loss Put At $355,000 In West Virginia Fire

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP) — Preliminary loss estimates came to $355,000 following a fire Sunday afternoon which destroyed a three-story brick building housing a Bluefield bakery.

No one was hurt, although there were eight to 10 workers in the Griffin Pie Co. building when the fire started.

A Visit To The Zoo

Ailing Boy Will Get Wish If All Goes Well Tuesday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Johnnie Dougherty looks up from his bed at his mother, seeking encouragement. He keeps asking if he's getting better and when mom is going to take him to the zoo to see the snakes and turtles.

Johnnie, 4, knows he's sick, but he doesn't know why.

His mother, a widow, turns her head to shake off the tears.

She can't bear to tell the boy he has cancer. Doctors had to amputate his left leg last December. He recently lost the sight of his left eye. The worst is that doctors right now don't see much hope for Johnnie.

But Johnnie finds worlds of comfort in mom and in the cards and toys his neighbors and friends in suburban Ridley Township send him. He lives with his dream and only wish—to visit the Philadelphia zoo.

Time may be running out for Johnnie, the doctors say, so everyone is pulling and praying for him, especially that his only wish of visiting the zoo will be fulfilled. The other day a local radio announcer asked the listening audience to join him in a prayer for Johnnie.

If all goes well, Tuesday will be Johnnie's day and his dream will become a reality.

The doctor will come in and check Johnnie and if they boy has the strength he'll make the trip in the Milmont Fire Company ambulance. Volunteers will wheel him around in his wheel chair. Businessmen in the community are footing the bill. Zoo officials have arranged for a special tour for Johnnie.

20 Are Killed In Egyptian Plane Crash

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A Dutch propjet Electra crashed in sand dunes and caught fire in an attempt to land at Cairo today. Airline sources said 20 persons were killed. The Electra's cargo included gold ingots, jewelry and Swiss watches bound for Asia.

Information here was that the four-engine, Lockheed-built craft carried 46 persons and that all the survivors were injured, 10 seriously. The Royal Dutch Airlines KLM said no Americans were involved. The Electra was bound from Amsterdam to Kuala Lumpur, Malaya.

Dr. Ernst Van der Beugel, president of KLM, told newsmen at The Hague the plane carried 36 persons—29 passengers and 7 crewmen—and that 19 were killed. A KLM spokesman said those figures were provisional, but seemed "almost correct."

The plane had put down at

MORE THAN 250 youngsters ranging up to 3 were entered in the competition as the indoor baby show got under way.

Entrants and their mothers were seated in three huge circles on the floor of the dancing pavilion as nurses from Molly Stark Sanitarium in Canton narrowed down the field and finally made their selection of the three winners in each age group — up to 1, 1-2, and 2-3.

East Liverpool children captured first places in all three divisions. In the up to 1 grouping, Johnny Viscoglosi, 8 - month - old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Viscoglosi of N. Surry Rd., was judged the winner, while William Dean Allen, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Dean Allen of

Ailing Boy Will Get Wish If All Goes Well Tuesday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Johnnie Dougherty looks up from his bed at his mother, seeking encouragement. He keeps asking if he's getting better and when mom is going to take him to the zoo to see the snakes and turtles.

Johnnie, 4, knows he's sick, but he doesn't know why.

His mother, a widow, turns her head to shake off the tears.

She can't bear to tell the boy he has cancer. Doctors had to amputate his left leg last December. He recently lost the sight of his left eye. The worst is that doctors right now don't see much hope for Johnnie.

But Johnnie finds worlds of comfort in mom and in the cards and toys his neighbors and friends in suburban Ridley Township send him. He lives with his dream and only wish—to visit the Philadelphia zoo.

Time may be running out for Johnnie, the doctors say, so everyone is pulling and praying for him, especially that his only wish of visiting the zoo will be fulfilled. The other day a local radio announcer asked the listening audience to join him in a prayer for Johnnie.

If all goes well, Tuesday will be Johnnie's day and his dream will become a reality.

The doctor will come in and check Johnnie and if they boy has the strength he'll make the trip in the Milmont Fire Company ambulance. Volunteers will wheel him around in his wheel chair. Businessmen in the community are footing the bill. Zoo officials have arranged for a special tour for Johnnie.

Soviets Yield Minor Point; Talks Go On

Pro-Reds Will Let Truce Team Visit In Laos Situation

GENEVA (AP) — The Western nations returned to the East-West conference on Laos today after winning a comparatively meaningless concession from the Soviets.

The International Control Commission also reported it had appealed to the rival factions in Laos to get truce teams to the scene of reported fighting. The pro-Communist rebels previously had refused, but one report said a team now would be allowed to visit Padong, which Pathet Lao troops took from the royal government's forces Wednesday.

The Soviets agreed to join the British in another appeal to the warring factions in Laos to stop the sporadic fighting and cooperate with the International Control Commission.

The Soviets and British, co-chairmen of the conference, made a similar appeal April 24, before the cease-fire was proclaimed.

At American insistence, leaders of the Western delegations had said earlier they would not take up the talks again until there was an effective cease-fire.

One Western diplomat said it was a concession on the part of the Soviets to admit the cease-fire is not effective in Laos. Some

20 Are Killed In Egyptian Plane Crash

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A Dutch propjet Electra crashed in sand dunes and caught fire in an attempt to land at Cairo today. Airline sources said 20 persons were killed. The Electra's cargo included gold ingots, jewelry and Swiss watches bound for Asia.

Information here was that the four-engine, Lockheed-built craft carried 46 persons and that all the survivors were injured, 10 seriously. The Royal Dutch Airlines KLM said no Americans were involved. The Electra was bound from Amsterdam to Kuala Lumpur, Malaya.

Dr. Ernst Van der Beugel, president of KLM, told newsmen at The Hague the plane carried 36 persons—29 passengers and 7 crewmen—and that 19 were killed. A KLM spokesman said those figures were provisional, but seemed "almost correct."

The plane had put down at

4-Man Team To Leave On Trip To Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — A four-man American team leaves for Havana tonight in hopes of closing a deal with Prime Minister Fidel Castro to swap 500 tractors for 1,200 Cuban invasion prisoners.

The U.S. technical team representing the Tractors-for-Freedom Committee cabled Castro Sunday night that it would arrive in Havana at 8 a.m. Tuesday after an overnight stop in Miami.

The path to Havana seemed cleared of any official obstacles. Representatives of both the U.S. and Cuban governments said the team could get the necessary travel permits in Washington this morning.

But it remained to be seen whether Castro would agree to the terms the committee is offering. The pro-Communist Cuban has been talking publicly about deals the Americans say they will not accept.

A spokesman said the U.S. team of four non-government farm machinery experts hopes to complete arrangements in Havana in about a day, returning to the United States Wednesday.

In its cable to Castro, the group said it had power to negotiate only on details of the committee version of a swap and is in no position to discuss any other matters.

The Tractors-for-Freedom Committee is headed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, labor leader Walter P. Reuther and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president. The group of private citizens was set up with President Kennedy's help after Castro's May 17 offer in a TV speech to exchange his captives from the U.S.-aided invasion for 500 tractors. The committee has been soliciting donations to pay for the tractors.

One principal difference between Castro's proposal and the committee's counter-offer so far has been in the type of tractors involved.

Castro also has talked about political prisoner exchanges, a subject unacceptable to the committee. He has been vague about what prisoners he would return.

Palestine Schedules Exam For Patrolmen

EAST PALESTINE — A Civil Service examination will be held July 10 at the City Hall to create an eligibility list for patrolmen, E. C. Milliken, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, announced today.

The present eligibility list was exhausted by the temporary appointment of Jack Straley to the force after Wallace Dillworth was appointed acting police chief.

A meeting for the commission is planned this week to set a hearing date for former Police Chief Richard Lotze, dismissed from the force by Mayor Robert Harding on charges of improper conduct.

Applications for the examination are due Friday with the commission. Applicants must be a resident of the city a year and be between 21 and 31. A physical examination is due later.

Top Officials Suspected In Trujillo Case

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Announcement that a former defense secretary was involved in the assassination of dictator Rafael Trujillo aroused speculation today that other top echelon government officials were under suspicion.

First intimation the former secretary, Maj. Gen. Jose Roman Fernandez, might be involved came June 8 when a decree was put out naming his successor. Then it became known he was under interrogation and Sunday a government spokesman said he had confessed being one of the plotters of the May 30 assassination.

Roman's reported involvement stamped the slaying of Trujillo as part of a plot to seize control of the government he had dominated for 31 years.

Government officials had originally attributed the slaying to a personal grudge. Subsequent reports have brought out that the plotters planned to take over the government.

Secret police were able to strike quickly because two of the alleged assassins were captured alive and Trujillo's chauffeur, left for dead, reportedly recognized the voice of one plotter.

The Organization of American States mission here to investigate political conditions continued their fact-finding with a visit to the national prison at La Victoria.

The visit was arranged by the government, which wants to establish proof that prisoners have not been tortured for information and that their constitutional rights have been respected.

Eichmann Has Been Fading Away

An oddity has been developing in the Eichmann trial in Jerusalem. The hawk-faced defendant has deen fading away. Courtroom witnesses to his reactions from the testimony of incredible cruelty to the Jews by the Germans during Hitler's bloody era have nothing to report. It is as though the defendant had been replaced by a stuffed doll.

Eichmann is stolid and unresponsive to accounts of sadism and brutality that exceed anything ever related as a true account — personal recollections and photographs far worse than anything that could be conceived by writers of horror fiction.

But as the prosecution builds up its case to the climax of horror, something has been happening to the other people in the courtroom. A witness describing cannibalism in a death camp in Austria fainted while describing the horror. The three judges in the trial have shown signs of difficulty in controlling their revulsion.

The grimmest testimony concerns mass executions of hundreds of thousands and eventually millions of helpless men, women and children—the heartless techniques of genocide as practiced by the German nation's crazed leaders in World War II—but the most shocking testimony concerns the cruelty and brutality perpetrated against individuals who were mutilated and abused.

It is true, as everybody has agreed, that his personal guilt was predetermined and his trial meaningless.

But until the trial reached the climax of horror it had not been obvious that the defendant was the human race and the question implicit in the trial was whether genocide or anything comparable in brutality would occur again.

Germans were not aware of the scope of the crime while it was being committed, they point out in their defense. But neither were they as unaware of something horrible being done to the Jews as they say they were. They did not want to know what the horrible thing was. Some of them when they found out what it was could not admit what they had learned.

Eichmann is nothing. But as the symbolic defendant in a trial against humanity at its worst, he is everything humanity must never let itself be again.

The Little Things

There are a lot of little things that add up to big headaches in the city's traffic problem.

One of the basic requirements is that traffic keep moving.

It can't keep moving, however, if you stop under a traffic light or block an intersection in some other illegal manner; if a bus can't swing over into its designated stopping place because someone is parked illegally; if taxis stop too long on busy streets to wait for customers who seem to be in no hurry to get where they are going; if you make a turn where you are not supposed to make a turn; if you double park; if you park by a yellow line.

There are other infractions which occur from time to time, but the above are some which can be found almost daily.

Observance of traffic laws must go along with off-street parking and other measures designed to make things better for Mr. and Mrs. Motorist.

Seal Of Approval For Dominicans?

Critics who had been fearing the worst abou the Dominican Republic after the assassination of Generalissimo Trujillo are baffled.

Long afterward, the authorities admitted they had pulled a boner by not foreseeing that there would be enough deferred demand for consumer goods to keep producers busy for years to come. It is possible they pulled the same kind of boner about the Dominican Republic.

Something may have happened in the Dominican Republic while time was running out on the 30-year-plus dictatorship of Trujillo. It may even have happened to his son, who had been written off in advance as a playboy with no potentiality for anything but trouble.

The junior Trujillo seems agreeable to the idea that a commission from the Organization of American States should visit the republic and see for itself that promises of democratic elections, return of political exiles and a modus vivendi with the Roman Catholic are not empty; that the country is satisfied with the prospect of less despotism and more liberalism and there is no likelihood of a reign of terror.

This opens a new dimension of international respectability for countries that have been put on probation by their neighbors.

Instead of governments playing off one against another for diplomatic recognition, there may be, someday, a kind of international certification commission. Respectability then would depend on being able to get the seal of approval after due inspection and appraisal. There would be a prize for good behavior.

It would be the surprise of the century to find that the long-term reaction from the Trujillo dictatorship was to prepare the Dominican Republic for responsive and responsible government.

Keep It Clean

A reader has complained about unthinking adults who too often curse in the presence of children.

It's not — as the complainant points out — that the abusive language is directed at the youngsters, but it's a case where the kids are in hearing range, like it or not.

Generally it's a matter of poor judgment and bad taste on the part of those straying from the path of acceptable English. There are few who haven't cursed at one time or another. But there are few who wouldn't have been the better for not having done so.

If you're one who turns to cursing too frequently as a misdirected expression of opinion, why not take stock of yourself and try to correct the situation. It could be for your own good. Improper language in the presence of children could have disastrous consequences.

An irate parent might reply with a punch on the nose instead of nasty words of his own.

New York police department says it will give summonses to jaywalkers in move to educate pedestrians. It wil get nowhere. No New Yorker will ever submit to loss of 10 seconds on trip from curb to curb and will fight to the finish against obeying "Don't Walk" signs or waiting for green light.

Like residents of any big city, he feels he is a ball of fire in Brooks Brothers clothing, and a sort of combination guided missile and electric rabbit. Through his head rings the cry "Go! Go! Go!" regardless of traffic rules.

No pedestrian is a real, authentic 100 per cent New Yorker who hasn't fender bruises on both hips and bumper scars all over. He feels small town if he lacks them. Employers judge applicants by their traffic bruises, which give proof of speed. Frequent order to job seeker is "Lemme see your scars!"

THIRD TALLEST building in New York is new Chase National Bank structure in downtown Manhattan and it looks so unlike banks of past that you can't tell it without a program. It is of aluminum and glass with 8,800 oversized windows.

"Formerly a bank planned to impress the public with strength through stone, brick and monumental bronze-doors. Today the idea is to make banks more inviting and friendly," says David Rockefeller, its president.

Well, monumental bronze-doors and stone structure are still reassuring to most folks, but money isn't what it used to be. There is so much trouble keeping any for banking purposes that public interest in fortress-like architecture has been lost.

If Mr. and Mrs. America could keep what they earn and put a fair portion in banks they would still have high admiration for old-style banks. Fewer windows the better, preferably with iron bars. They wouldn't be receptive to glass fronts and wide open view of all bank operations. They would say "to hell with friendliness; just give me tough bankers running tough banks in tough buildings."

Aged Echo Rolls On

By Vern Haugland

Echo I, the star-like balloon satellite, has shrunk to two-thirds its original size and has wrinkled from a sphere into the elongated shape of a prune.

The huge aluminum - coated plastic ball still is sufficiently rounded to reflect faithfully many of the radio signals bounced up against it.

And it still is the brightest and shiniest object that can be seen every night, from some part of the earth, moving serenely across the sky.

Watchers in the southern part of the United States in recent weeks, in fact, have described the satellite as unusually bright.

Not so, says the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which launched the 136-pound, 100-foot-diameter sphere into orbit last Aug. 12. Probably the southern sky is clearer with the better weather of spring.

If anything, says NASA, Echo should be dimming as she ages.

A spokesman said radar measurements indicate that the satellite is now only about 70 feet in diameter.

Furthermore, its skin has wrinkled along the 84 gores of material from which it was fabricated.

A mysterious effect called solar pressure is driving the sphere gently but constantly earthward.

The Smithsonian Institution's astrophysical laboratory has estimated that the satellite will become caught in the earth's atmosphere and destroyed either next April, or in July, 1963, or in May, 1964.

Those are the periods of Echo's lowest perigees, or closest approaches to the earth. Laboratory calculations point to mid-1963 as the most likely of the three periods for the end of orbit.

Echo was launched into a nearly circular orbit, 1,000 miles above the earth.

South Viet Hits Back At Reds

By Dennis Bloodworth

SAIGNON

It was the tattered fringe of Asia, where ragged fingers of low-lying land reach out for the sea, and the mangrove swamps and dense coconut forests are veined with the waterways of the Mekong river delta, some of them half a mile wide.

Here, where roads are few and bridges and ferries vital, a newly-promoted colonel of the South Vietnamese army was staking his reputation and his future on a bold and unorthodox experiment in order to beat the Vietcong (Vietnamese Communist) guerillas who now invest and terrorize the young pro-Western state of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Col. Albert Pham Ngoc Thao, compact, neatly uniformed, became military governor of Kien Hoa coastal province some six months ago after the Vietcong had so infiltrated and subverted the population that the central government had virtually no control.

TO HALT THIS process the military, civil and police authorities had arrested anyone faintly suspected of Communist sympathies, while the army shelled and shot-up villages where the Communists had attacked a police post or mined the roads and ambushed official transport.

Consequently there was much indiscriminate killing and destruction; sullen resentment of the peasant population against Diem's forces of law and order increased, and the power of the Vietcong grew. No roads were safe, waterways were mined, civil guards and defense units in isolated areas, fearful of Vietcong reprisals deserted their posts.

"But our problem is, in fact, not how to kill Vietcong, but how to win the people's confidence," Col. Thao told me. "These Communist bogeys are, in fact, our own people, most of them recruited locally for guerilla fighting. If once we prove that our administration is just, and that our object is not to grind down the peasant, treat him as an enemy and destroy human life and property indiscriminately, they will have nothing to fight for."

Accordingly, one of the colonel's first acts on taking office was to release 1,200 of the 1,500 "suspects" who had been summarily imprisoned, and to deal harshly with soldiers or civil servants who had used their authority to cheat or bully the villagers.

TO THE astonishment and sometimes fury of his superiors, he also set free some of the Vietcong his men captured in clashes with them allowing them to walk out of prison camps—with their weapons.

"We don't want to give the impression we are afraid of them," he said. "It is also difficult, for them to explain to their suspicious comrades how they come to have been released so easily."

Even more disconcerting to the guerrilla enemy than this, Col. Thao has trained his men not to return fire when the Vietcong opens up on them, but quietly to note the position of the Communists and encircle them. With this unnerving tactic they are not only able to ring the enemy for a mass capture, but they win the approval of the population in the vicinity by avoiding unnecessary destruction and deaths.

"We still have to show them from time to time that we can annihilate them when we want to," Thao pointed out.

At the beginning of this month infantry and rangers under his command, moving secretly up the side roads and tracks of this water-logged country, and then seeping through the mangrove and matted brush for a final assault, smashed a 500-strong concentration of regular Vietcong guerillas and auxiliaries, killing 57 and taking many other prisoners.

THERE WERE TWO significant points about this operation. The first was that Col. Thao was tipped of that the Vietcong were assembling at that point. The second was that the Vietcong were not informed that he was moving against them, and his forces were able to take them by surprise.

In a country where troop movements are usually signalled to the Communists by sympathizers and it means summary death at the hands of the guerillas to give information to the authorities, this was convincing proof that Col. Thao was rapidly winning the population to his side.

Today the roads, mined, dug-up and often ambushed by the Vietcong, have been rebuilt in Kien Hoa, and guard posts re-established.

Units have been distributed for the protection of villages, and are setting up permanent positions deeper and deeper inside the swamps and forests which earlier no man in uniform had dared to enter.

In one day as many as 150 guerillas and their sympathizers have surrendered to Thao.

The colonel, faced with 12 "companies" of Vietcong fighters supported by several thousand local sympathizers, has little more than 1,000 regular troops, mainly Vietnamese rangers who are being trained for guerilla warfare today in Nhatrang at one of the toughest battle schools in the world.

But he is getting on top of the situation and proving that the Communists, whether their weapons are guns, propaganda or their own morale and convictions, can be soundly drubbed and the authority of Saigon restored.

THERE IS IRONY, yet logic, in Col. Thao's success. The international press has discovered him, has described how he fought for the Communist Vietminh during the Indo-China War, but as a strong Catholic and nationalist slowly made his peace with President Ngo Dinh Diem, and was finally commissioned in the Vietnamese army.

But this is not, in fact, the first time that the name of "Albert" has bid fair to become a legend. For during Vietminh's successful war against the French, Col. Thao was secret Vietminh intelligence chief for all of the south, and his brother, Gaston, was a leading member of the central political committee that directed all Vietminh operations in that area.

It is small wonder that he knows how to win the psychological and fighting war against the Vietcong ("Their cadres are far from being what they were in those days.")

I met Thao during the immediate aftermath of the Indo-China War when, living obscurely in the provinces and earning his living as a school teacher, he carefully examined his conscience before deciding to give his loyalty to anti-Communist and Catholic President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Now provincial commanders from all over Viet Nam are being invited to observe and study his methods in Kien Hoa. Many of them are still critical, others have been inspired by him, and others only made jealous.

HIS EMERGENCE is a heartening sign that the Saigon administration is slowly learning that conventional armies and leaders will no more beat insidious Communist propaganda and hit-and-run Vietcong forces than could the French in the early fifties.

Just as jungle fighting ranger companies are being formed to supplement the normal Vietnamese infantry, and the infantry is being subjected to tougher psychological and combat courses on how to defeat the enemy and win over pacifically the millions—"The water in which the fish swims" as Mao Tse-Tung has described them—so the hopes of South Viet Nam lie with men like Col. Thao.

But these changes consitute a slow revolution on the rigid thinking of President Diem's entourage, and Viet Nam's well wishers will have to keep their fingers crossed for many months to come.

Is Jack Too Busy?

By James Marlow

President May Be Spreading Self Too Thin

WASHINGTON

President Kennedy's rest these past few days with his aching back gave him time to wonder whether he is trying to do too much by himself.

He is a must-do and must-see kind of president.

In his case it means reading four newspapers a day, going through reports himself, rounds of conferences with his aides, using the telephone to get answers, endlessly meeting people, making speeches and, more recently, going places.

But in doing so much by himself he has used up a good deal of time which might have otherwise been spent reflecting on problems here and overseas.

His European trip, made primarily for conferences, took an extravagant toll of his hours and energy with speeches, banquets, public appearances, and wreath-laying.

President Eisenhower took a more relaxed view of the presidency. He said he didn't read the papers much. He depended a lot on his staff to keep him informed and bring him proposals for yes or no decisions.

Kennedy promised action and he is providing it.

At this early point in his presidency—when it's of the utmost importance that he learn the problems as best and fast as he can—he alone can say whether he is spreading himself too thin.

Eisenhower was criticized for not doing enough. It will be ironic if Kennedy winds up being criticized for trying to do too much.

It may or may not be significant that all the major programs Kennedy has offered since entering the White House were ideas he expressed and supported earlier: medical care for the aged, a higher minimum wage, the Peace Corps, long-term foreign aid, and more reliance on conventional military weapons.

Kennedy has made perhaps three major decisions in foreign relations and one of them—the disastrous go-ahead on the Cuban invasion—got him some savage criticism for bad judgment.

But this was not a casual or impulsive decision which lacked time for thought. It was exhaustively considered.

The other two were calling for a cease-fire in Laos and going to meet President Charles de Gaulle and Premier Khrushchev.

The meetings probably were long-planned since Kennedy apparently felt it was necessary to talk with both men. The Laos decision was forced on him at the last minute to save the country from complete Communist takeover.

The most extreme example of the must-do and must-see kind of public official was the late John Foster Dulles, Eisenhower's secretary of state.

He traveled more than any secretary in history, seeming to operate in the belief that he personally had to do anything which needed doing anywhere.

Dulles came up with nothing new in a period which badly needed new ideas for holding back communism.

His critics suggested he would have had more time for thinking if he had spent less time hopping around.

GOP Opportunity

By Raymond Moley

I take as my text on this occasion a statement made by Senator Morton before his resignation as Republican National Chairman when he heard about the election of John G. Tower in Texas: "A Republican has won the Senate seat in Texas, therefore we have shown the strength of the party."

It would be hard to find a more vivid example of self-delusion. "We"—if Morton means the Republican organization of which he was chairman—had little to do with Tower's success. The election was won by an attractive young man who had convictions and the capacity to express them. He won because in Texas there are hundreds of thousands who are not happy with the liberal Democrats who are in control in the White House and in Congress.

Tower's election was not a demonstration of Republican strength. But it was a clear indication of a great Republican opportunity. It has been estimated that there were not more than 100,000 real Republicans included in the Tower vote. In addition to them, there were 350,000 who were not vitally attached to any party.

THE ENLISTMENT of people like these all over the nation in a vital Republican Party is the job of Republican organizations, from the National Committee to the counties, townships, and wards of the cities.

In general, a party is seeking votes. Now the order is reversed. Millions of worried Americans are looking for a party to represent them.

In the South most people in the urban centers are no longer bound by Democratic traditions dating back to the Civil War and the Reconstruction. In the North there are also millions who want to make their votes effective. But those millions, who could be the basis of a majority of the electorate, have not yet found the means of effective political action.

They have not found the Republican Party sufficiently well organized to find something for these people to do. This is true in most of the big states and in what represents the Republican Party in Washington.

What is necessary to mobilize this latent strength? Two things: Vigorous organization in the states and local communities, and understandable, affirmative party policies. The first in importance is organization.

But most of those who are talking about Republicanism seem unaware of the need for strong organization. They are propounding a philosophy which would turn the clock back, or they are talking about being more liberal than the Democrats, or they are wasting their time by idle speculation about candidates in 1964. But unless the Republican Party gets itself better organized in the states carried by Kennedy in 1960, no Republican candidate can win in 1964.

It was a sad commentary on Republican leadership when the new national chairman, William E. Miller, on his first appearance on television talked about a Rockefeller-Goldwater ticket in 1964. Or of running Nixon if he ran for governor of California in 1962 and won.

A really able Republican National Chairman of 40 years ago, Will Hays, might have given the novice Miller a bit of advice. Hays said: "The job of a national chairman is to elect, not select." In other words, he should see to the organization of the party forces and never participate in the candidacies of individuals.

THE FACT is that there are several centers of Republicanism in Washington now, each of which is pretending to speak for the party. There is the national committee and its staff and chairman, there is the Republican Congressional Committee, there is the "Ev and Charley" combination representing the minority leadership in Congress, and there is Senator Goldwater operating on his own.

There is also a sort of liberal Republican center, with Javits of New York and Case of New Jersey as spokesmen. There is no harmony among all these and a great deal of conflict.

Most Republican leaders seem only to be waiting for President Kennedy and his majority in Congress to win for them. They contribute merely negative criticism, which is useful but which is not all that an opposition party should stand for.

What is needed is an alternative philosophy which requires thought, concentration and imagination. It should neither seek to out-promise the Democrats nor reject all that has been done in the past thirty years.

But most of all, there should be better organization at all levels.

Versatile Gas

The same gas that puts the fizz in soft drinks also takes the "tears" from onions, propels spears, makes rain, sounds foghorns and ages cheese.

The versatile gas is carbon dioxide, which is heavy, colorless, faintly pungent and increasingly useful as a solid, liquid or gas. A recent survey listed 177 general uses of carbon dioxide, the National Geographic Society says. They range from adhesives manufacture to rodent control.

Cooled under pressure and compressed into cakes, carbon dioxide becomes "dry ice." In this form it is a solid with a temperature of 109 degrees below zero. When warmed, dry ice does not melt but evaporates into gas.

Long used to keep ice cream frozen on picnics, dry ice has a host of new uses. Onions are cooled, then chopped with dry ice into fine pieces. Sold frozen, they retain the essential oils and aroma of fresh onions, but the housewife is spared the tears that accompany slicing.

Eichmann Has Been Fading Away

An oddity has been developing in the Eichmann trial in Jerusalem. The hawk-faced defendant has deen fading away. Courtroom witnesses to his reactions from the testimony of incredible cruelty to the Jews by the Germans during Hitler's bloody era have nothing to report. It is as though the defendant had been replaced by a stuffed doll.

Eichmann is stolid and unresponsive to accounts of sadism and brutality that exceed anything ever related as a true account — personal recollections and photographs far worse than anything that could be conceived by writers of horror fiction.

But as the prosecution builds up its case to the climax of horror, something has been happening to the other people in the courtroom. A witness describing cannibalism in a death camp in Austria fainted while describing the horror. The three judges in the trial have shown signs of difficulty in controlling their revulsion.

The grimmest testimony concerns mass executions of hundreds of thousands and eventually millions of helpless men, women and children—the heartless techniques of genocide as practiced by the German nation's crazed leaders in World War II—but the most shocking testimony concerns the cruelty and brutality perpetrated against individuals who were mutilated and abused.

It is true, as everybody has agreed, that his personal guilt was predetermined and his trial meaningless.

But until the trial reached the climax of horror it had not been obvious that the defendant was the human race and the question implicit in the trial was whether genocide or anything comparable in brutality would occur again.

Germans were not aware of the scope of the crime while it was being committed, they point out in their defense. But neither were they as unaware of something horrible being done to the Jews as they say they were. They did not want to know what the horrible thing was. Some of them when they found out what it was could not admit what they had learned.

Eichmann is nothing. But as the symbolic defendant in a trial against humanity at its worst, he is everything humanity must never let itself be again.

The Little Things

There are a lot of little things that add up to big headaches in the city's traffic problem.

One of the basic requirements is that traffic keep moving.

It can't keep moving, however, if you stop under a traffic light or block an intersection in some other illegal manner; if a bus can't swing over into its designated stopping place because someone is parked illegally; if taxis stop too long on busy streets to wait for customers who seem to be in no hurry to get where they are going; if you make a turn where you are not supposed to make a turn; if you double park; if you park by a yellow line.

There are other infractions which occur from time to time, but the above are some which can be found almost daily.

Observance of traffic laws must go along with off-street parking and other measures designed to make things better for Mr. and Mrs. Motorist.

"We still have to show them from time to time that we can annihilate them when we want to," Thao pointed out.

At the beginning of this month infantry and rangers under his command, moving secretly up the side roads and tracks of this water-logged country, and then seeping through the mangrove and matted brush for a final assault, smashed a 500-strong concentration of regular Vietcong guerillas and auxiliaries, killing 57 and taking many other prisoners.

THERE WERE TWO significant points about this operation. The first was that Col. Thao was tipped of that the Vietcong were assembling at that point. The second was that the Vietcong were not informed that he was moving against them, and his forces were able to take them by surprise.

In a country where troop movements are usually signalled to the Communists by sympathizers and it means summary death at the hands of the guerillas to give information to the authorities, this was convincing proof that Col. Thao was rapidly winning the population to his side.

Today the roads, mined, dug-up and often ambushed by the Vietcong, have been rebuilt in Kien Hoa, and guard posts re-established.

Units have been distributed for the protection of villages, and are setting up permanent positions deeper and deeper inside the swamps and forests which earlier no man in uniform had dared to enter.

In one day as many as 150 guerillas and their sympathizers have surrendered to Thao.

The colonel, faced with 12 "companies" of Vietcong fighters supported by several thousand local sympathizers, has little more than 1,000 regular troops, mainly Vietnamese rangers who are being trained for guerilla warfare today in Nhatrang at one of the toughest battle schools in the world.

But he is getting on top of the situation and proving that the Communists, whether their weapons are guns, propaganda or their own morale and convictions, can be soundly drubbed and the authority of Saigon restored.

THERE IS IRONY, yet logic, in Col. Thao's success. The international press has discovered him, has described how he fought for the Communist Vietminh during the Indo-China War, but as a strong Catholic and nationalist slowly made his peace with President Ngo Dinh Diem, and was finally commissioned in the Vietnamese army.

But this is not, in fact, the first time that the name of "Albert" has bid fair to become a legend. For during Vietminh's successful war against the French, Col. Thao was secret Vietminh intelligence chief for all of the south, and his brother, Gaston, was a leading member of the central political committee that directed all Vietminh operations in that area.

It is small wonder that he knows how to win the psychological and fighting war against the Vietcong ("Their cadres are far from being what they were in those days.")

I met Thao during the immediate aftermath of the Indo-China War when, living obscurely in the provinces and earning his living as a school teacher, he carefully examined his conscience before deciding to give his loyalty to anti-Communist and Catholic President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Now provincial commanders from all over Viet Nam are being invited to observe and study his methods in Kien Hoa. Many of them are still critical, others have been inspired by him, and others only made jealous.

HIS EMERGENCE is a heartening sign that the Saigon administration is slowly learning that conventional armies and leaders will no more beat insidious Communist propaganda and hit-and-run Vietcong forces than could the French in the early fifties.

Just as jungle fighting ranger companies are being formed to supplement the normal Vietnamese infantry, and the infantry is being subjected to tougher psychological and combat courses on how to defeat the enemy and win over pacifically the millions—"The water in which the fish swims" as Mao Tse-Tung has described them—so the hopes of South Viet Nam lie with men like Col. Thao.

But these changes consitute a slow revolution on the rigid thinking of President Diem's entourage, and Viet Nam's well wishers will have to keep their fingers crossed for many months to come.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Five members of City Council — Clarence J. Vogel, president, Fred Lowary, Charles S. Peters, Richard H. Keay and John Riel — filed declarations for renomination at the Republican primaries in August.

Members of the East Liverpool City Hospital Training School for Nurses included Sophia L. Cooper, Narissa M. Cook, Rebecca G. Jones, Frances L. Hughes, Goldie B. Boyd, Agnes H. Rushton and Evelyn N. Carson.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — A total of 174 candidates was listed as the books closed on filings for primaries in eight Columbiana County cities and villages.

Thomas Russell of East Liverpool, former city policeman, resigned as deputy sheriff to accept private employment.

Seven East Liverpool residents were awarded degrees at Ohio State University. They were Rowland D. Lyons, Leonard A. Blumberg, Edwin D. Foulks, Thomas M. Prescott, Robert J. Moore, Philip P. Irwin and Willard E. Palomer.

TEN YEARS AGO — E. G. Jackson, Chester insurance agent, spoke at a meeting of the Chester Kiwanis Club.

Fred Baldassare was installed as grand knight of Wellsville Council 507, Knights of Columbus.

Past president pins were presented to Mrs. Anna Rosenbaum and Mrs. Mary Diddle by the Auxiliary of the Marine Corps League.

Is Jack Too Busy?

President May Be Spreading Self Too Thin

WASHINGTON

President Kennedy's rest these past few days with his aching back gave him time to wonder whether he is trying to do too much by himself.

He is a must-do and must-see kind of president.

In his case it means reading four newspapers a day, going through reports himself, rounds of conferences with his aides, using the telephone to get answers, endlessly meeting people, making speeches and, more recently, going places.

But in doing so much by himself he has used up a good deal of time which might have otherwise been spent reflecting on problems here and overseas.

His European trip, made primarily for conferences, took an extravagant toll of his hours and energy with speeches, banquets, public appearances, and wreath-laying.

President Eisenhower took a more relaxed view of the presidency. He said he didn't read the papers much. He depended a lot on his staff to keep him informed and bring him proposals for yes or no decisions.

Kennedy promised action and he is providing it.

At this early point in his presidency—when it's of the utmost importance that he learn the problems as best and fast as he can—he alone can say whether he is spreading himself too thin.

Eisenhower was criticized for not doing enough. It will be ironic if Kennedy winds up being criticized for trying to do too much.

It may or may not be significant that all the major programs Kennedy has offered since entering the White House were ideas he expressed and supported earlier: medical care for the aged, a higher minimum wage, the Peace Corps, long-term foreign aid, and more reliance on conventional military weapons.

Kennedy has made perhaps three major decisions in foreign relations and one of them—the disastrous go-ahead on the Cuban invasion—got him some savage criticism for bad judgment.

But this was not a casual or impulsive decision which lacked time for thought. It was exhaustively considered.

The other two were calling for a cease-fire in Laos and going to meet President Charles de Gaulle and Premier Khrushchev.

The meetings probably were long-planned since Kennedy apparently felt it was necessary to talk with both men. The Laos decision was forced on him at the last minute to save the country from complete Communist takeover.

The most extreme example of the must-do and must-see kind of public official was the late John Foster Dulles, Eisenhower's secretary of state.

He traveled more than any secretary in history, seeming to operate in the belief that he personally had to do anything which needed doing anywhere.

Dulles came up with nothing new in a period which badly needed new ideas for holding back communism.

His critics suggested he would have had more time for thinking if he had spent less time hopping around.

GOP Opportunity

By Raymond Moley

I take as my text on this occasion a statement made by Senator Morton before his resignation as Republican National Chairman when he heard about the election of John G. Tower in Texas: "A Republican has won the Senate seat in Texas, therefore we have shown the strength of the party."

It would be hard to find a more vivid example of self-delusion. "We"—if Morton means the Republican organization of which he was chairman—had little to do with Tower's success. The election was won by an attractive young man who had convictions and the capacity to express them. He won because in Texas there are hundreds of thousands who are not happy with the liberal Democrats who are in control in the White House and in Congress.

Tower's election was not a demonstration of Republican strength. But it was a clear indication of a great Republican opportunity. It has been estimated that there were not more than 100,000 real Republicans included in the Tower vote. In addition to them, there were 350,000 who were not vitally attached to any party.

THE ENLISTMENT of people like these all over the nation in a vital Republican Party is the job of Republican organizations, from the National Committee to the counties, townships, and wards of the cities.

In general, a party is seeking votes. Now the order is reversed. Millions of worried Americans are looking for a party to represent them.

In the South most people in the urban centers are no longer bound by Democratic traditions dating back to the Civil War and the Reconstruction. In the North there are also millions who want to make their votes effective. But those millions, who could be the basis of a majority of the electorate, have not yet found the means of effective political action. They have not found the Republican Party sufficiently well organized to find something for these people to do. This is true in most of the big states and in what represents the Republican Party in Washington.

What is necessary to mobilize this latent strength? Two things: Vigorous organization in the states and local communities, and understandable, affirmative party policies. The first in importance is organization.

But most of those who are talking about Republicanism seem unaware of the need for strong organization. They are propounding a philosophy which would turn the clock back, or they are talking about being more liberal than the Democrats, or they are wasting their time by idle speculation about candidates in 1964. But unless the Republican Party gets itself better organized in the states carried by Kennedy in 1960, no Republican candidate can win in 1964.

It was a sad commentary on Republican leadership when the new national chairman, William E. Miller, on his first appearance on television talked about a Rockefeller-Goldwater ticket in 1964. Or of running Nixon if he ran for governor of California in 1962 and won.

A really able Republican National Chairman of 40 years ago, Will Hays, might have given the novice Miller a bit of advice. Hays said: "The job of a national chairman is to elect, not select." In other words, he should see to the organization of the party forces and never participate in the candidacies of individuals.

THE FACT is that there are several centers of Republicanism in Washington now, each of which is pretending to speak for the party. There is the national committee and its staff and chairman, there is the Republican Congressional Committee, there is the "Ev and Charley" combination representing the minority leadership in Congress, and there is Senator Goldwater operating on his own.

There is also a sort of liberal Republican center, with Javits of New York and Case of New Jersey as spokesmen. There is no harmony among all these and a great deal of conflict.

Most Republican leaders seem only to be waiting for President Kennedy and his majority in Congress to win for them. They contribute merely negative criticism, which is useful but which is not all that an opposition party should stand for.

What is needed is an alternative philosophy which requires thought, concentration and imagination. It should neither seek to out-promise the Democrats nor reject all that has been done in the past thirty years.

But most of all, there should be better organization at all levels.

Versatile Gas

The same gas that puts the fizz in soft drinks also takes the "tears" from onions, propels spears, makes rain, sounds foghorns and ages cheese.

The versatile gas is carbon dioxide, which is heavy, colorless, faintly pungent and increasingly useful as a solid, liquid or gas. A recent survey listed 177 general uses of carbon dioxide, the National Geographic Society says. They range from adhesives manufacture to rodent control.

Cooled under pressure and compressed into cakes, carbon dioxide becomes "dry ice." In this form it is a solid with a temperature of 109 degrees below zero. When warmed, dry ice does not melt but evaporates into gas.

Long used to keep ice cream frozen on picnics, dry ice has a host of new uses. Onions are cooled, then chopped with dry ice into fine pieces. Sold frozen, they retain the essential oils and aroma of fresh onions, but the housewife is spared the tears that accompany slicing.

Plans Shaped For 'Council' By Cardinals

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A central committee of cardinals opens a 10-day conference here today to prepare for the Ecumenical Council of the Roman Catholic Church. Pope John XXIII heads the committee and expects to preside at most of the sessions.

The Ecumenical Council, which will be the church's 21st such worldwide gathering, is still at least a year away.

It will be the first since 1870, when the church lost the city of Rome to invading troops ofw hat was becoming modern Italy. The 20th council, then in session, was adjourned.

Despite the loss of Rome and of the papal states that once were spread over a large part of central Italy, the power and influence of the church has grown.

Today, it has a membership of nearly a half billion and diplomatic relations with about 50 nations. The Roman Catholic Church stands as one of the major forces against the threat of atheistic communism.

The church's senate—the College of Cardinals—has, under Pope John, been expanded far beyond its old limit of 70. It now has 84.

Since the last Ecumenical Council, the college has seen the addition of Negro, Japanese, Chinese, Indian and Filipino cardinals — making it representative for the first time of all the major races.

All of this group are among the 50 cardinals on the central committee. Others include Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York.

The general discussion is calculated to assist Pope John in formulating a decree setting forth the council's procedure.

5 Awards Given At Church Outing

Five special awards were given at the annual picnic of the congregation of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Sunday at Thompson Park. Two hundred attended.

They were presented to Mrs. Martha Milby of Pittsburgh, 92, the oldest woman; Henry Cresswell, 75, oldest man; Richard Manning Jr., 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Manning, youngest child; Mr. and Mrs. Roland Horton, married the greatest number of years, and Mrs. Joan Angus of Philadelphia, traveling the greatest distance.

Adult winners at games and contests were Mrs. Robert Glover, Miss Ruth Ann Paisley, Sayre Graham, Mrs. Arden Hartenbach and Frank Mitcheson.

Children's prizes went to Betsy Horton, Jill Mitcheson, Mike Daughtery, John Nocerino, Matthew Nocerino, Dallas Glover, Dennis Lowe, Jeffry Clapsadle and Vicki Smith. Peanut scrambles were featured.

The committee was Mrs. Frank Mitcheson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mackey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glover, Frank Hancock and Clyde Cox.

Inoculation Required Of Hancock Students

Parents of children who will enter Hancock County schools next term have been reminded that all pupils who have not completed the required series of inoculations within 30 days before the term begins will be excluded.

Mrs. Charlotta M. Logston of Newell, county school nurse, said "according to the Public Health Laws of West Virginia, all children must be inoculated against smallpox and diptheria before entering school."

Since the complete series of immunizations requires three months, parents were urged to consult their family physicians or the Public Health Department to obtain the injections if they have not completed the series or started the immunizations, she said.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The Fire Prevention Bureau today opened an investigation into the explosion of a gasoline tank truck which caused injuries to 71 persons Saturday. Five of the 22 still hospitalized were in critical condition.

Three experts from Standard Oil Co. of Ohio's (Sohio) Cleveland headquarters were summoned to participate in the inquiry. The Sohio truck, carrying almost 8,000 gallons of fuel, skidded on a curve on Anthony Wayne Trail at the edge of the downtown district. The truck overturned and caught fire.

A giant blast ripped the area as soon as firemen poured water on the flaming truck. Persons two blocks away were injured. Nine homes were set afire and two were destroyed. At least 38 children were injured.

CINCINNATI (AP)— Cincinnati police are holding John McIntosh, 48, who turned himself in Sunday shortly after his stepson, Michael W. McIntosh, 31, was shot to death. Young Driver Loses Permit

A 19-year-old East End youth had his driver's license revoked for a month and was fined today in Municipal Court after his arrest early Saturday for passing three halted cars and crashing a traffic signal.

Charles Thomas Landy of Valley Ave. received the 30-day license suspension and a fine of $25 and costs from Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a reckless driving charge.

Patrolman R. B. Pyle cited Landy, alleging he passed three autos halted for the traffic signal at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St. and then continued through the light at a high rate of speed. He was cited at 4:35 a. m.

Two other motorists were fined for other traffic violations.

Melvin Harris, 20, of 1071 Pennsylvania Ave. was fined $15 and costs on a speeding charge filed by the State Highway Patrol. Harris was cited at 1:40 a. m. Saturday for driving 65 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on Route 30 between Routes 45 and 267.

The patrol said Harris admitted having "a few beers" but said they apparently did not affect his driving.

Darrell A. Baumgarner of Marshall's Bottom was fined $10 and costs for using loud mufflers on his 11-year-old auto, but Judge Chertoff suspended the fine on payment of costs. Baumgarner was cited at 9:35 p. m. Saturday on Pennsylvania Ave. after police said they received complaints about the noise.

Joyce Chuck Of West Point Weds Austintown Resident

WEST POINT — Observing all the familiar traditions, Miss Joyce A. Chuck carried a lace handkerchief she recently received from a pen-pal in England when she became the bride of M. Thomas Butts Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the Jerusalem Lutheran Church in Columbiana.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Chuck of West Point and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Tod Butts of Austintown.

A half - hour of nuptial music preceded the ceremony. The Rev. A. A. Anderson, pastor, officiated for the double - ring service before an altar background of palms and ferns enhanced with vases of white gladiolus and pompons and seven-branch candelabra. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle fashioned with fitted basque bodice of lace with scalloped bateau neckline and long, pointed sleeves. In floor-length, the bouffant hooped skirt of tulle ruffles featured an overskirt of tulle with bands of Chantilly lace.

A queen's coronet of crystal held her veil of imported silk illusion.

She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and fleur D'amour with a shower of white satin picot streamers.

Mrs. Patricia Skero of Wyano, Pa., cousin of the bride, was matron of honor and her gown was of silk organza over satin in pink, styled with a bouffant skirt and pleated cummerbund. She wore a floral headpiece with matching veil and carried a crescent bouquet of painted daisies and roses in blue.

Miss Donna Chuck was her sister's bridesmaid and was attired in a gown, identically styled to that of the matron of honor, in blue with matching floral headpiece and veil. Her crescent bouquet was of pink painted daisies and roses. The pearl necklaces, earrings and white gloves they wore were gifts of the bride.

Charles Fraysier of Cortland, friend of the bridegroom, was best man and Greg Horn of Youngstown, another friend, ushered.

The mother of the bride chose a lavendar silk dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a gray and white print dress with matching accessories. Each complemented their attire with corsages of pink roses.

Mrs. Minnie Bergman of West Newton, Pa., grandmother of the bride, wore a blue dress with a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception for 200 followed in the social room. A four-tiered wedding cake surrounded with flowers adorned the buffet table decorated in a pink and white color scheme. Mrs. Victor Dukes, aunt of the bride, served the cake. Miss Patricia Barborak presided at the silver coffee service and Mrs. Jean Ann Cook at the punch bowl.

Mrs. Sandra Chuck, the bride's sister-in-law, registered guests from Cortland, Youngstown, Warren, Austintown, Salem, Columbiana, West Point and Lisbon.

For her wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a powder blue summer dress with white accessories and her bridal corsage.

The bride is a 1959 graduate of Beaver Local High School and was employed until recently as a clerk in the Southwest District Court at Lisbon. Her husband is a 1955 graduate of South High School in Youngstown and is a patrolman with the State Highway Patrol. He was transferred recently from Lisbon to the barracks at Swanton, Ohio.

The bridegroom's parents entertained the bridal party at their home Friday evening following the rehearsal.

They will reside in Swanton.

a key to the answers—from a professional concern and kept the material in a sealed envelope and under lock and key until a few minutes before a test, Reagle explained. Since the commission's appropriation for 1961 was not sufficient to meet all its needs, it went back to the practice of preparing its own tests, he added.

But Reagle said he favors postponing the clerk-stenographer exam until the commission can purchase a new professionaly - prepared exam.

Reagle said he had several telephone calls over the weekend "from people commending the commission for the action."

"Anytime anyone hears rumors or reports about our business, I would like them to notify us in order that we can investigate," he said. "We're always the last to hear."

Informants should supply their names and addresses, but their identity will be kept secret if they so stipulate, Reagle said.

Crash

Munich and Rome en route to Cairo. The passengers included Dutch, Germans, Italians, British, Irish, Egyptians and Burmese. Two Irish Roman Catholic nuns were among the dead.

Three of the seven-member crew perished.

The plane crashed in a desert area nearly two miles from the end of the runway.

"All of a sudden we felt a tremendous jolt," said Rifaat Chafik, an Egyptian who was among those not seriously injured. "The plane struck the ground and fires started immediately."

A KLM official said there apparently was no serious fire, though parts of the wreckage burned.

Experts of the airline were expected from the Netherlands to investigate the crash, the third mishap to a KLM plane within two weeks.

On May 30 a KLM DC8 carried 62 persons—48 passengers and 14 crew members—to death in the Atlantic off Lisbon. Sunday an engine on a DC7 caught fire and went out of control on a flight from Hartford, Conn., to Europe. The plane, chartered by 73 employes of the Electric Boat Co., of Connecticut for a European tour, was buffeted about for 40 minutes before the engine fell off. The plane landed safely on three engines at Prestwick, Scotland.

The Electra was due to fly on from Ciro to Basra, Karachi, Rangoon, Bangkok, Singapore and Kuala Lumpur. Its cargo of gold ingots and other valuables—the total undetermined — was consigned to Burma and Thailand. With the ingots were jewelry, cameras and 2,500 Swiss watches.

PROUD AS PUNCH. These three youngsters obviously were as proud as punch after being named winners of the "junior bathing beauty contest" Saturday at the Potters Picnic. From left in the order they finished are: Timothy White, 7½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. White of New Castle; Becky Sanfilippo, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanfilippo, 1708 Clark Ave., Wellsville, and Johnnie Blanton, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Blanton, 927 Euclid Ave., Toronto.

In an unofficial newspaper poll to select a national bird for Canada, the Canadian goose won resoundingly.

Gaston Pl., won in the 1-2 bracket. Mark Kevin O'Farrell, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Farrell, 15 N. Shady Ln. Dr., won in the 2-3 division.

IN THE UP to 1 bracket, second place went to Lisa Hughes, 5 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Hughes of Sebring, and third was won by Leandra McKinnon, 10-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McKinnon, 1157 Erie St.

Second place in the 1-2 bracket went to Christy Lynn Madison, 21 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Madison of St. Clair Ave. Ext. while third was awarded Gregory Thomas Ruble, 20 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ruble, 417 W. 5th St.

Betsy Jane Brereton, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Brereton, 1177 Lisbon St., took second in the 2-3 group, with third going to Michelle Kenst, also 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kenst of Canton.

THE FIRST PLACE winners were presented with $50 Savings Bonds while those selected for second received $25 Savings Bonds. Third place winners were given $10 in Savings Stamps. All entrants received a baby plate.

Nearly 500 boys and girls between 4 and 7 were entered in the "junior bathing beauty contest," in which first place was won by Timmy White, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. White of New Castle.

Second place went to Becky Sanfilippo, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanfilippo, 1708 Clark Ave., Wellsville, and third was won by Johnnie Blanton, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Blanton, 927 Euclid Ave., Toronto.

—:—

The Canton nurses judged the contest, held in the Moonlight Gardens, the outdoor dancing pavilion, circling the concrete oval to select semi-finalists before picking the three winners.

Unruly parents almost halted the distribution of gifts to each entrant, breaking out of line and rushing their youngsters toward the band platform. It required several appeals from the committee before the children finally were able to parade across the platform, with girls receiving dolls and boys getting two-gun holster sets.

Following the baby show, a penny scramble was held for youngsters in three age brackets—5-7; 8-10, and 11-12. Some 2,500 pennies were distributed as the eager youngsters ran, fell and skidded across the dance floor seeking the coins.

ONE ENTERPRISING youngster probably made more than any of the others. While sitting out one of the scrambles with his mother, he noticed several coins had fallen to the floor while being passed out to committee members. The boy raced over, picked up 10 to 20 pennies from between the legs of the committee members and quietly returned to his seat as others anxiously awaited the word to start the scramble.

Following the penny scramble, free dancing was held in the ballroom until 4:30 p. m.

Despite the sunny day, the picnic committee brewed and dispensed an estimated 600 gallons of free coffee from a booth on the midway. Families received coffee in big containers for their picnic lunches and it was dispensed by the cup until late in the evening.

Laos

observers said the West was back where it was when it broke off the talks last Wednesday after forces of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao overran a royal government outpost at Padong.

The decision to resume the conference was reached in discussions between Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and the chief Western delegates — America's Averell Harriman, France's Jean Chauvel and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

A British spokesman said developments had taken place in Laos which indicated that the International Control Commission is operating on its own initiative. He would not explain.

The truce group has been unable to operate effectively in Laos because the Pathet Lao has refused to let it move freely in territory the Reds control.

THE FIRST PLACE winners were presented with $50 Savings Bonds while those selected for second received $25 Savings Bonds. Third place winners were given $10 in Savings Stamps. All entrants received a baby plate.

Nearly 500 boys and girls between 4 and 7 were entered in the "junior bathing beauty contest," in which first place was won by Timmy White, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. White of New Castle.

Second place went to Becky Sanfilippo, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanfilippo, 1708 Clark Ave., Wellsville, and third was won by Johnnie Blanton, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Blanton, 927 Euclid Ave., Toronto.

—:—

The Canton nurses judged the contest, held in the Moonlight Gardens, the outdoor dancing pavilion, circling the concrete oval to select semi-finalists before picking the three winners.

Unruly parents almost halted the distribution of gifts to each entrant, breaking out of line and rushing their youngsters toward the band platform. It required several appeals from the committee before the children finally were able to parade across the platform, with girls receiving dolls and boys getting two-gun holster sets.

Following the baby show, a penny scramble was held for youngsters in three age brackets—5-7; 8-10, and 11-12. Some 2,500 pennies were distributed as the eager youngsters ran, fell and skidded across the dance floor seeking the coins.

ONE ENTERPRISING youngster probably made more than any of the others. While sitting out one of the scrambles with his mother, he noticed several coins had fallen to the floor while being passed out to committee members. The boy raced over, picked up 10 to 20 pennies from between the legs of the committee members and quietly returned to his seat as others anxiously awaited the word to start the scramble.

Following the penny scramble, free dancing was held in the ballroom until 4:30 p. m.

Despite the sunny day, the picnic committee brewed and dispensed an estimated 600 gallons of free coffee from a booth on the midway. Families received coffee in big containers for their picnic lunches and it was dispensed by the cup until late in the evening.

Laos

observers said the West was back where it was when it broke off the talks last Wednesday after forces of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao overran a royal government outpost at Padong.

The decision to resume the conference was reached in discussions between Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and the chief Western delegates — America's Averell Harriman, France's Jean Chauvel and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

A British spokesman said developments had taken place in Laos which indicated that the International Control Commission is operating on its own initiative. He would not explain.

The truce group has been unable to operate effectively in Laos because the Pathet Lao has refused to let it move freely in territory the Reds control.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Reducers Can Break 'Sweets' Habit

A friend said to me, "I try to sell myself on the idea that a favorite dessert won't taste very good anyway". . .and added ruefully, "but it doesn't often work."

Ida Jean Kain

At a dinner a dietitian who was trying to cut calories said, "Do you mean I'm to look at that dessert and tell myself I'll be happier if I don't eat it?"

I doubt that either plan would be successful for they are not very realistic. Memory is strong, and well you remember that desserts taste delicious. A better plan is to think in terms of what you want to achieve for by this plan you hitch your will power to a goal.

One dieter hit upon an effective way of dealing with assorted sweets.

WHEN TEMPTED with some favorite fattener she would say to herself, "I can have that, and it would taste delicious for perhaps five minutes. . . .but it will be no favor to myself. . .because I want to be slim."

The first time she tried this reasoning she was alone. . .and suddenly she shouted joyously. . . "That's it, I want to be slim!"

The will is a powerful force when it is used to help you achieve what you want. When you set your sights on a goal, the force of your will is steered in that direction.

It's a mistake to associate will power with self-denial for then you put the emphasis in the wrong place . . .on deprivation. When you use will in a negative sort of way, you can hold out only so long as you exert physical force. That's the hard way!

To illustrate: When faced with rich dessert, the self-denial method is to say, "I can't have that, it's too fattening." If you are with a friend she will urge you to enjoy yourself . . .pointing out that one more dessert won't make any difference. Just the encouragement you need!

Will power is your strongest desire of the moment. So, at the moment you are tempted, flash your goal on the screen of your mind. Your image-making faculty is the force back of your will. Decide what you really want. Make this a mental-set and this conditioning can serve you on all occasions.

DIETERS, BE assured, the craving for fattening desserts and other sweets can be conquered. Be on guard for a few weeks, and after that nature will cooperate.

This does not mean you will not enjoy an occasional favorite, but you will no longer feel a compulsive urge to indulge. You will be in control.

Put your emphasis where you want it . . . on achievement. Say right out loud . . . "I want to be slim."

Send a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope for "Hunger Control Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

3 Cars Damaged In City Accidents

Three autos were damaged in three minor weekend traffic mishaps, East Liverpool police reported.

A collision on Dresden Ave. Saturday at 11:56 p. m. involved a 1954 two-door sedan driven by Elmer A. West of Cleveland and a 1954 four-door sedan driven by Charles V. Sprouse Jr. of Dixonville, officers said. The left front door and fender of the Sprouse auto were damaged when West attempted to pass on the left while Sprouse was making a turn, police said.

A mishap on Anderson Blvd. at Beechwood St. Saturday involved a 1955 coupe operated by Fred Crawford, 30, of 1730 Anderson Blvd. and a 1960 four-door sedan driven by Herman Heidel Jr., 17, of 908 Avondale St., police said. The left rear door and fender of the Heidel car were damaged, police said.

Robert Williams, 934½ Lisbon St., told police the left front fender and bumper of his 1955 two-door sedan were damaged in a hit-skip collision between 8 p. m. Friday and 9 a. m. Saturday while the car was parked in front of his home.

The more common name for leucocytes is white corpuscles.

Feed Grain Program Check Set In Hancock

Hancock County farmers who are taking part in the 1961 feed grain program should be ready soon to have their acreage checked, according to C. C. Herron of Pughtown, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Herron said he expects the measurement of feed grain acreage to get underway about June 20. At that time, employes of the county committee will start visiting farms that are participating in the program. The acreage of corn also will be measured.

Herron said two days is the time estimated to visit and check the five farms participating in the feed grain program. Each farmer in the program has been permitted acreage for corn for the current crop season. The permitted acreage is the farm base for corn, minus the number of acres a farmer agreed to divert from production of this crop in 1961.

Named Prison Head

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Mrs. Grace Smith Gose has been appointed superintendent of the West Virginia Prison for Women at Pence Springs, succeeding Mrs. Evelyn J. Smithson.

Legislators To Push Bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some good bets as the Ohio legislature enters probably the last fortnight of its regular session:

Republican lawmakers probably will go along with the two-year-old pleas of Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle for elimination of sales tax stamps.

DiSalle probably will lose again on his attempt to get a criminal conspiracy law on the books, even though the House has passed such a bill for the second straight session.

Republican legislators probably will toss to DiSalle an unemployment insurance rate increase for employers to bolster the sagging benefits fund, but tacked onto the measure will be a handful of provisions to stiffen eligibility requirements.

The Republican Senate will turn a deaf ear to wails of protest from the DiSalle administration and cut the $2 billion state budget even more than the $26 million already hacked out by the House.

Bolstered by a $15 million saving resulting from elimination of sales tax stamps, Republicans will make an effort to exempt prescription medicine from the sales tax, a move which would cost the state treasury an estimated $3 million in the next two years.

A new lobby control measure, while it may pass the House, probably will die in the last minute Senate shuffle.

The lobby bill comes up for a floor vote in the House today or tonight after being held over from Thursday's calendar for further study by Speaker Roger Cloud. It applies to attempts by public officials to influence legislation in addition to lobbying by private individuals.

The bill to increase employer contributions to the dwindling jobless benefits fund also is up for a floor vote in what promises to be one of the longest floor sessions of the year. House passage will send it to the Senate.

The new legislative week, 24th of the session, also will see the House Finance Committee start work on a $120 million capital improvements bill proposed by the DiSalle administration.

The legislative week, which probably will extend through Friday as lawmakers put on a drive to finish their work by June 24, also may see the Senate Finance Committee finish its pruning job on the big money bill of the session.

A bill to exempt prescription medicine from the state's 3 per cent sales tax is scheduled for a floor vote in the House Tuesday and hurry-up consideration by a Senate committee. If the bill makes the legislative grade, it will be the only sizable tax reduction produced by the Republican legislature which followed the 1959 Democratic assembly's tax - increase program of about $312 million.

Child Can Be Taught Before School

Over the years I have, in this column, tried to prevail on parents not to encourage their child to read before entering the first grade. I'm ashamed to admit that I have even told parents generally to discourage the tot before entering the first grade in any formal learning he will later get at school; that if he insisted on such learning they had better divert his interest. Sometimes I said such learning might hamper him later; also that reading required too great eyestrain for the young child. I think now that I was wrong in giving such advice. Of course, I still would try to dissuade parents from pressing the child before the first grade to read and do number work, or from cramming him with facts in order to amaze adults with his mental exploits.

Dr. Garry Meyers

BUT WHEN the youngster shows strong interest in knowing the names of words or letters I would hope he would be helped, gladly, to satisfy his curiosity.

Moreover, the average child, before the age of six, might profit from learning at play the names of the letters of the alphabet, even with some of their basic sounds, and to count objects and associate them with number symbols up to 10.

As you know, many children in the first grade are not taught to read for several weeks or months after they enter this grade. Some are kept from it even longer. The notion is that they are not yet ready to learn to read.

Perhaps there may be one or two children in a first grade so retarded mentally as not to profit much from lessons in reading. But why so many are considered unready to read for so long doesn't make sense to me. Nor does it make sense to hundreds of other parents in the United States.

WHAT IS WORSE, an occasional child, who already has learned to read, may be kept in the first grade on a primer when he might be reading at a higher level.

Published studies of almost 1,500 children with an IQ of 140 or more reveal that 2% learn to read at the age of three, 6% by the age of four and 20% by the age of five.

Referring to these data, Prof. Irving H. Anderson, of the University of Michigan, points out that most children who have learned to read before entering school have taught themselves to read.

"While it is true that the gifted tend to read by themselves," he says, "they might learn to read even better if given instruction. We have evidence that bright children can enter the first grade well before six and more than hold their own academically with older children who are not as bright."

Perhaps age of entrance laws should be re-examined in the light of such evidence.

Social Security Changes Cited

Recent changes in the social security law affect current beneficiaries, as well as those about to retire, William J. McCauley, manager of the Youngstown district office, points out.

All beneficiaries who were under 72 years of age during any part of last year still are required to file an annual report of earnings if they earned more than $1,200 during 1960.

If earnings during 1961 exceed $1,200, one or more social security checks must be withheld during the year. According to McCauley, a person's estimate of his earnings during 1961 will be used as a guide for withholding checks early in the year. In this way, Mr. McCauley says, beneficiaries will not receive excessive overpayments in benefits this year. Since by law overpayments of benefits must be withheld later or refunded to the Social Security Administration, McCauley points out that it is to the beneficiary's advantage to have the necessary checks withheld early in the year and thus not find at the end of the year that he has received too many checks during 1961.

If you are about to retire, your social security office also needs to know how much you expect to earn this year.

McCauley reminds area residents that his office has all of the latest information on how much a person can now earn and still get some or all of his social security benefits. He invites people already retired or retiring this year to talk with a claims representative or get a copy of the new social security booklets, No. 23, "If You Work While You Get Social Security Payments," or No. 25E, "The Social Security Retirement Test for Farm People." Copies of these booklets can also be obtained by writing to the social security office.

U.S. Danger From China May Top That Of Russia

Sometimes the Red brothers, China and the Soviet Union, show signs of falling out. Is there a serious cleavage that will help anti-communists by splitting the opposing forces? Here is an appraisal from an American correspondent who has spent the last 20 years in Europe and Asia. Now chief of the AP bureau in Moscow, he is currently on home leave in the United States.

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

The question of Russia's worry over its conflict with China is raised so persistently here in the United States that it prompts a counter question:

Whose problem with China is greater — Russia's or the United States?

The question is raised so often you begin to suspect that Americans wish Russians would have more trouble with China so the United States wouldn't have so much.

Two years of living with this and other Russian questions in Moscow lead this correspondent to believe that Russia's immediate danger from China is less than half as great as many Americans seem to think — and probably not as great as that of the United States. At least not right now.

In general this is the opinion of a large body of diplomatic and other trained observers who—in the shadow of the Kremlin—must make the best estimates they can.

American troubles with China are acute enough. This country is trying to build a retaining wall to help keep Chinese communism from spreading its influence elsewhere in Asia, particularly in the southeast.

Russia's problem starts on a different level.

China and Russia are competing for dominance in the Communist world. So far the Russians are well ahead. But the going is not easy.

Two regions of conflict already have developed — Albania, lying across the Adriatic from Italy, and Mongolia, high in the plateau country of Central Asia.

There probably is a third. Russia has moved in to become the big friend and protector of North Viet Nam's victory over the French.

To the north, Mongolia is an underprivileged, underdeveloped underdog in the Communist world. Russia in a big brother manner has been helping it for a generation, sending money, technicians and political teachers. China began sending technicians into Mongolia a few weeks ago, and has offered material help as well.

Albania is more painful for Russia. This tiny country has been Russia's only foothold on the Mediterranean since Russia's quarrel with Tito.

The Albanian situation leads straight back to the ideological clash between Khrushchev and Mao Tze-tung, communism's leader in China.

Ever since he came to power Khrushchev has promoted the theory that communism could absorb the western world bit by bit without resorting to war.

Mao Tze-tung holds that war is an inevitable necessity for shaking down capitalist regimes.

At the big Communist conclave in Moscow last November a month-long debate brought endorsement of Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence approach to bringing down the capitalist world without war.

Enver Hoxha, Communist party chief in Albania, sided with China. After a bitter exchange Khrushchev jumped on him so hard he went home.

There is no formal break but Hoxha has jailed a lot of Khrushchev sympathizers, and even had some shot, according to reports coming out of the barren little Red republic.

Immediately China stepped in by sending technicians and money.

Yet this is just fringe fighting between the two big Communist powers. To industrialize, China needs Russian help. She is getting it, although there are signs the amount has been trimmed since the big party fight last November.

Russia and China are rivals, rather than antagonists. Each will support the other against the United States on any subject whatever. That likely will continue to be true for a long time.

Social Security Changes Cited

Recent changes in the social security law affect current beneficiaries, as well as those about to retire, William J. McCauley, manager of the Youngstown district office, points out.

All beneficiaries who were under 72 years of age during any part of last year still are required to file an annual report of earnings if they earned more than $1,200 during 1960.

If earnings during 1961 exceed $1,200, one or more social security checks must be withheld during the year. According to McCauley, a person's estimate of his earnings during 1961 will be used as a guide for withholding checks early in the year. In this way, Mr. McCauley says, beneficiaries will not receive excessive overpayments in benefits this year. Since by law overpayments of benefits must be withheld later or refunded to the Social Security Administration, McCauley points out that it is to the beneficiary's advantage to have the necessary checks withheld early in the year and thus not find at the end of the year that he has received too many checks during 1961.

If you are about to retire, your social security office also needs to know how much you expect to earn this year.

McCauley reminds area residents that his office has all of the latest information on how much a person can now earn and still get some or all of his social security benefits. He invites people already retired or retiring this year to talk with a claims representative or get a copy of the new social security booklets, No. 23, "If You Work While You Get Social Security Payments," or No. 25E, "The Social Security Retirement Test for Farm People." Copies of these booklets can also be obtained by writing to the social security office.

U.S. Danger From China May Top That Of Russia

Sometimes the Red brothers, China and the Soviet Union, show signs of falling out. Is there a serious cleavage that will help anti-communists by splitting the opposing forces? Here is an appraisal from an American correspondent who has spent the last 20 years in Europe and Asia. Now chief of the AP bureau in Moscow, he is currently on home leave in the United States.

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

The question of Russia's worry over its conflict with China is raised so persistently here in the United States that it prompts a counter question:

Whose problem with China is greater — Russia's or the United States?

The question is raised so often you begin to suspect that Americans wish Russians would have more trouble with China so the United States wouldn't have so much.

Two years of living with this and other Russian questions in Moscow lead this correspondent to believe that Russia's immediate danger from China is less than half as great as many Americans seem to think — and probably not as great as that of the United States. At least not right now.

In general this is the opinion of a large body of diplomatic and other trained observers who—in the shadow of the Kremlin—must make the best estimates they can.

American troubles with China are acute enough. This country is trying to build a retaining wall to help keep Chinese communism from spreading its influence elsewhere in Asia, particularly in the southeast.

Russia's problem starts on a different level.

China and Russia are competing for dominance in the Communist world. So far the Russians are well ahead. But the going is not easy.

Two regions of conflict already have developed — Albania, lying across the Adriatic from Italy, and Mongolia, high in the plateau country of Central Asia.

There probably is a third. Russia has moved in to become the big friend and protector of North Viet Nam's victory over the French.

To the north, Mongolia is an underprivileged, underdeveloped underdog in the Communist world. Russia in a big brother manner has been helping it for a generation, sending money, technicians and political teachers. China began sending technicians into Mongolia a few weeks ago, and has offered material help as well.

Albania is more painful for Russia. This tiny country has been Russia's only foothold on the Mediterranean since Russia's quarrel with Tito.

The Albanian situation leads straight back to the ideological clash between Khrushchev and Mao Tze-tung, communism's leader in China.

Ever since he came to power Khrushchev has promoted the theory that communism could absorb the western world bit by bit without resorting to war.

Mao Tze-tung holds that war is an inevitable necessity for shaking down capitalist regimes.

At the big Communist conclave in Moscow last November a month-long debate brought endorsement of Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence approach to bringing down the capitalist world without war.

Enver Hoxha, Communist party chief in Albania, sided with China. After a bitter exchange Khrushchev jumped on him so hard he went home.

There is no formal break but Hoxha has jailed a lot of Khrushchev sympathizers, and even had some shot, according to reports coming out of the barren little Red republic.

Immediately China stepped in by sending technicians and money.

Yet this is just fringe fighting between the two big Communist powers. To industrialize, China needs Russian help. She is getting it, although there are signs the amount has been trimmed since the big party fight last November.

Russia and China are rivals, rather than antagonists. Each will support the other against the United States on any subject whatever. That likely will continue to be true for a long time.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I am in the eight grade and something is bothering me. I ran for a class office last week. A close friend of mine ran against me. My friend said he didn't think it was nice for a person to vote for himself, so he voted for me. I voted for myself and I won the election by one vote.

After the election my friend said to me: "Anyone who votes for himself is selfish, greedy and conceited."

I say a person shouldn't be running for office unless he thinks he is the best candidate.

President Kennedy voted for himself. His picture was in all the papers. I figure if it's okay for him it's okay for me. How about this?—SELFISH, GREEDY AND CONCEITED?

Dear S G and C: Grownup politics is not the same as eighth grade politics. I'm sure Mr. Nixon knew that Mr. Kennedy would not vote for him and vice versa.

If, when you opponent told you he was voting for you, did you tell him you were voting for yourself? If you did, you are in the clear and, in my opinion, not selfish, greedy or conceited.

Wedding Or Auction?

Dear Ann: I wouldn't believe this if it weren't happening to me. Please tell me what to do.

I am engaged to marry a lovely girl. The wedding date has been set for August. Her folks have kept a written record of every gift they have sent in the last 15 years — birthdays, graduation, wedding and anniversaries. Alongside each gift is the estimated value.

They are inviting people they haven't seen in years, just because they owe a gift. The whole thing is nauseating to me and my parents are very unhappy about it. My fiancee doesn't like it either but she says her folks are adamant.

Am I too idealistic, as my father-in-law says, or is this outrageous? JUST THE GROOM.

Dear Groom: It IS outrageous but unfortunately, since the bride's parents put on the wedding (or should I say auction?), there's not much you can do about the guest list. They can invite whomever they please, for whatever reasons they choose. So grin and bear it.

A $300 Problem

Dear Ann: My husband's sister, who is a divorcee, is leaving in September for a three-month trip around the world. She wants us to keep her 9-year-old son.

We have two children of our own and she feels he would enjoy their companionship. Then too, we live across the street from the school. She wants to pay us $100 a month for the boy's room and board and we can use the money.

The problem is this: Her son has been raised with very little discipline. I am rather strict with our children and they stay in line or else. I told my husband that if the boy stays with us he must abide by the same rules that apply to our children.

He says the boy isn't ours and we have no right to insist on it. What do you say? — FACTS FIRST.

Dear First: I agree with you and I hope you will establish the ground rules with both the boy and his mother in advance. Two sets of standards for three children would be chaos unleashed.

Unless you make it clear that the boy is to be treated like a member of your own family, you are inviting much more than $300 worth of trouble.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tom Woods, Early Potter, Visits Outing

One of the most interested spectators at the Potters Picnic Saturday at Meyers Lake Park in Canton was a Sebring man, a former member of the union's Executive Board and associated with the pottery business for 71 years, who has attended all 33 of the annual events.

Now 84 but in remarkably good health after recuperating from a severe heart attack three years ago, Tom Woods renewed acquaintances with old frineds.

Woods, who received the award as the oldest member attending the 1960 picnic, recalled joining the organization, then the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, shortly after it was organized.

"I was just a kid," he commented as he recalled starting in the pottery business at the old Vodrey Brothers plant here in 1889. He moved to Sebring in 1912, four years after being elected sixth vice president, a post he held for 27 years. When he went on the board, Tom Duffy was president.

He began his career as a presser and then became a caster, working at the trade for the last 21 years. Woods was employed for 25 years at the Royal China Co., the last 10 as personnel manager before retiring "unofficially" about a year ago.

As proud as he is of his pottery record, he's even prouder of a daughter, Rosemary, who was a secretary to Vice President Richard Nixon and then returned to California with him after the presidential election.

You Often Save Money By 'Shopping Around'

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

As a long-time advocate of "shopping around" for the best possible mortgage, rather than accepting the first one offered, we were interested in a bit of advice handed out the other day by the American Bankers Association.

When considering a home improvement project that requires financing, said the ABA, "shop around" for the best type of plan for your particular needs.

In short, the bankers themselves are aware that different financing programs have advantages as well as disadvantages—and that it's up to you to find the one which has the most advantages for you.

There is, of course, the regular Title I Federal Housing Administration loan for home improvements.

There is the conventional property-improvement bank loan. There is the personal loan. And there are various kinds of mortgage refinancing plans. Don't arbitrarily decide to get a particular kind of loan to make those major improvements to your home. Instead, find out what each plan offers — and whether it fits your financial background. You'll be surprised at how often you can save money and, in many cases, future headaches.

Following up the ABA's statements, we asked the association what other advice it had for home owners contemplating property improvements. It had these suggestions:

Make a long - range plan. Think out all your proposed improvements at one time.

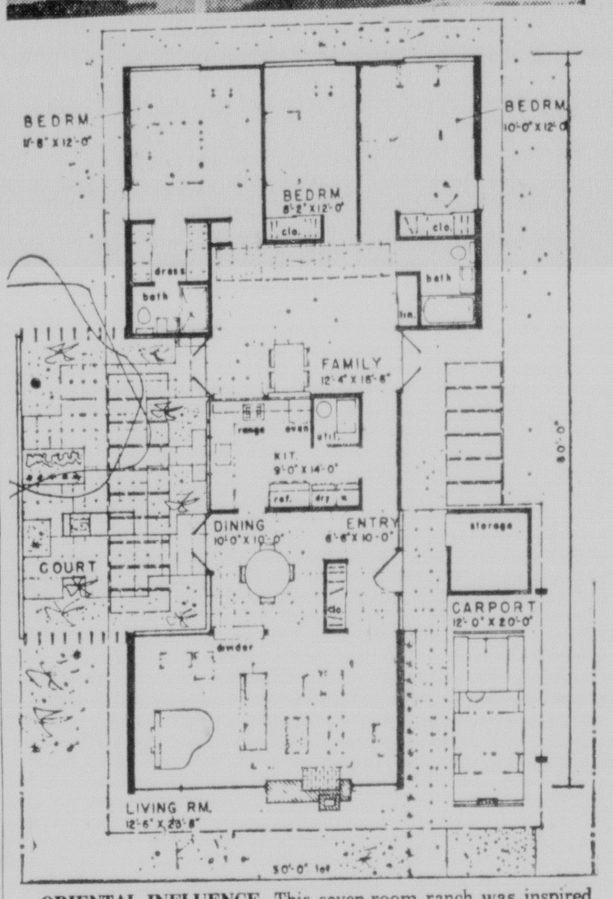
Put everything down on paper to avoid spending money later to undo work you paid for earlier. And decide at the same time how much work you can do yourself and how much will need outside, professional help.

Set up a small fund for maintenance, adding a regular sum each week or month. This will take care of regular, minor repairs, making it necessary to get loans only for major jobs.

And don't take on more debt than you can afford. A good rule of thumb is to keep your total installment debt within 15 per cent of family income after taxes and all deductions.

This limit does not include the mortgage payments on your home, which are considered the same as rent.

Vermont is the only New England state without a seacoast.



ORIENTAL INFLUENCE. This seven-room ranch was inspired by the simple beauty and serenity of traditional Japanese architexture and landscaping. It is designed for a narrow lot (50x100), measuring 60 feet at its deepest point and 31 feet at its widest. The architect is Samuel Paul, 89-30 161st St., Jamaica, N. Y. and the plan is HA193P.

Paint Should Be Left To Dry After Insects Have Landed

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
Written For Bell Syndicate

After you have spent a hard day painting the exterior of your house, there is nothing quite so sickening as to find gnats or microscopic flies have settled on the paint by the thousands.

The average home mechanic will dash into his den or work room and feverishly thumb through his do-it-yourself book for the remedy. This is about the worst thing he could do. The second mistake will be to follow any directions that recommend touching either the gnats or the paint.

There is only one solid, practical solution for this catastrophe—that is to do absolutely nothing for three or four days, or as long as it takes for the paint to set up hard. At the end of that time, the only tools or anything else required is a good stiff whisk broom.

The microscopic insects which swarm are very short - lived. They are also so fine in body that they dry up completely in one or two sunny days. And having dried out to complete brittleness, they can be brushed off the paint without a trace being left. This also applies to large flies, spiders and mosquitos. Just let them dry up and the whisk broom will take care of them.

In some rare cases the swarm has been so heavy that the broom will not completely whisk them off, so it may be necessary to hose down the wall and use a soft bristle brush.

The temptation is great to do something immediately, but it must not be done, and the surface must not be touched until the paint is bone dry and the insects dried out.

All-Electric Homes Given Lower Rates

The Ohio Power Co. today announced a new lower electric rate now is available to any of its 7,000 customers who have all-electric homes.

The rate, 1.4 cents per kilowatt hour as compared with a previous rate of 1.5 cents, has been approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio and will apply to those domestic customers whose homes are completely electric, including electric heat and water heating.

The reduction is estimated to bring an average savings of 5 per cent for those customers who are eligible.

Commenting on the new rate, A. N. Prentice, Ohio Power's vice president and general manager, said: "Ohio Power never has increased its residential rates and, during these times when most costs are going up, it is a real pleasure to be able to lower prices."

He said Ohio Power believes the rate reduction will afford incentive for increased all-electric living. An anticipated revenue loss as a result of the rate reduction will be compensated eventually by greater volume of energy sales, inasmuch as the new rate makes electric heating more competitive with other automatic fuels, he said.

Under Ohio Power's new total electric home rate, there will be a minimum charge of $10 monthly for the first 450 kilowatt hours of energy consumed for residential use through one meter. All succeeding kilowatt hours consumed in the month will be billed at 1.4 cents each, except the last 400 kilowatt hours earmarked for water heating, which are billed at one cent each.

THIS IS ONE OF MANY new homes being displayed in the tri-state area by Albee Homes, Inc. It is located near Chester and was the scene of an "Open House" inspection Saturday and Sunday. It was built by Richard Aken. Albee Homes is one of the nationwide leaders in the pre-cut home field. The company has its headquarters at Hickory, Pa.

Tips Are Offered For Application Of An Oil Finish

AP Newsfeatures

Question: I have never had much luck with varnishes, lacquers ando ther finishes of that type. Besides, I am not one of those who considers a glossy finish pleasing to the eye, although I know that most people do.

Now that I have bought an unfinished table, I would like to put on a linseed oil finish, which I understand gives a mellow but not glossy surface. Can you tell me whether it is a practical finish and how to put it on?

Answer: A linseed oil finish is excellent from many standpoints, but is not as highly water resistant as varnishes and lacquers.

Properly applied and well rubbed, this finish is exceptionally pleasing to the eye, having a satiny luster without gloss. The first coat can be put on either with a brush or a clean cloth, but then must be wiped off immediately.

A cloth dampened with the linseed oil is then used for the second coat, accompanied by long and vigorous rubbing. About a week later still another coat is applied, once again with plenty of rubbing. The more rubbing, the better the finish.

A linseed oil finish should be renewed about once a year. It does not scratch too easily and it is fairly resistant to hot dishes.

Hot Water Faucet Outdoors Offers Indoor Convenience

CHICAGO — How many times could you have used hot water outdoors if it were available?

With a hot water faucet located in your backyard, you can enjoy many of the same conveniences and pleasures that you have in your home, the Pumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau suggests.

It's a big help in window washing, as you would save yourself the many steps required to haul pails of hot water from your kitchen, basement or utility room.

It's a big help in car washing, too. When you have a hot water faucet outdoors, all you do is attach a hose to the hydrant and you have all of the hot water you need just where you want it.

If you do a lot of outdoor entertaining, then a hot water faucet would certainly be a big help for cooking and cleaning up in your kitchen-in-the-open.

Even the kids would benefit from hot water outdoors, as they would jump into wading pools that contained warm, not chilly water.

If you don't have a mud or cleanup room in your home, then your backyard, equipped with a hot water faucet, could be used for such things as cleaning dirty boots and washing the dog.

It makes good sense to call your plumbing contractor to see how a hot water line could be run from your basement or utility room to some convenient place outdoors. Like all hot water lines, it should be insulated to conserve fuel.

Youth 'Sentenced' To Barber's Chair

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — When an 18-year-old appeared in city court to answer charges of corner-lounging, City Judge James B. McKenna said he didn't like the boy's unruly locks.

When the lad's mother said she was broke, the judge took up a collection and sentenced the youth to a barber's chair.

All-Electric Homes Given Lower Rates

The Ohio Power Co. today announced a new lower electric rate now is available to any of its 7,000 customers who have all-electric homes.

The rate, 1.4 cents per kilowatt hour as compared with a previous rate of 1.5 cents, has been approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio and will apply to those domestic customers whose homes are completely electric, including electric heat and water heating.

The reduction is estimated to bring an average savings of 5 per cent for those customers who are eligible.

Commenting on the new rate, A. N. Prentice, Ohio Power's vice president and general manager, said: "Ohio Power never has increased its residential rates and, during these times when most costs are going up, it is a real pleasure to be able to lower prices."

He said Ohio Power believes the rate reduction will afford incentive for increased all-electric living. An anticipated revenue loss as a result of the rate reduction will be compensated eventually by greater volume of energy sales, inasmuch as the new rate makes electric heating more competitve with other automatic fuels, he said.

Under Ohio Power's new total electric home rate, there will be a minimum charge of $10 monthly for the first 450 kilowatt hours of energy consumed for residential use through one meter. All succeeding kilowatt hours consumed in the month will be billed at 1.4 cents each, except the last 400 kilowatt hours earmarked for water heating, which are billed at one cent each.

Tips Are Offered For Application Of An Oil Finish

AP Newsfeatures

Question: I have never had much luck with varnishes, lacquers ando ther finishes of that type. Besides, I am not one of those who considers a glossy finish pleasing to the eye, although I know that most people do.

Now that I have bought an unfinished table, I would like to put on a linseed oil finish, which I understand gives a mellow but not glossy surface. Can you tell me whether it is a practical finish and how to put it on?

Answer: A linseed oil finish is excellent from many standpoints, but is not as highly water resistant as varnishes and lacquers.

Properly applied and well rubbed, this finish is exceptionally pleasing to the eye, having a satiny luster without gloss. The first coat can be put on either with a brush or a clean cloth, but then must be wiped off immediately.

A cloth dampened with the linseed oil is then used for the second coat, accompanied by long and vigorous rubbing. About a week later still another coat is applied, once again with plenty of rubbing. The more rubbing, the better the finish.

A linseed oil finish should be renewed about once a year. It does not scratch too easily and it is fairly resistant to hot dishes.

Hot Water Faucet Outdoors Offers Indoor Convenience

CHICAGO — How many times could you have used hot water outdoors if it were available?

With a hot water faucet located in your backyard, you can enjoy many of the same conveniences and pleasures that you have in your home, the Pumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau suggests.

It's a big help in window washing, as you would save yourself the many steps required to haul pails of hot water from your kitchen, basement or utility room.

It's a big help in car washing, too. When you have a hot water faucet outdoors, all you do is attach a hose to the hydrant and you have all of the hot water you need just where you want it.

If you do a lot of outdoor entertaining, then a hot water faucet would certainly be a big help for cooking and cleaning up in your kitchen-in-the-open.

Even the kids would benefit from hot water outdoors, as they would jump into wading pools that contained warm, not chilly water.

If you don't have a mud or cleanup room in your home, then your backyard, equipped with a hot water faucet, could be used for such things as cleaning dirty boots and washing the dog.

It makes good sense to call your plumbing contractor to see how a hot water line could be run from your basement or utility room to some convenient place outdoors. Like all hot water lines, it should be insulated to conserve fuel.

Youth 'Sentenced' To Barber's Chair

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — When an 18-year-old appeared in city court to answer charges of corner-lounging, City Judge James B. McKenna said he didn't like the boy's unruly locks.

When the lad's mother said she was broke, the judge took up a collection and sentenced the youth to a barber's chair.

Indians Use Reserve Power To Whip Athletics Twice

Essegian Drives Home 5 Markers; Detroit In Split

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Reserve outfielder Chuck Essegian drove in five runs with a pair of homers in the first game and doubled home the winning run in the ninth inning of the second as the Cleveland Indians swept a Sunday doubleheader from Kansas City, 7-3, and 4-3.

The double victory boosted the Indians' first place lead over Detroit to a game and a half as the Tigers were held to a split by the Washington Senators. The Tigers had to go 11 innings to win the second game 7-6 after losing the opener 7-3.

The New York Yankees climbed to within a half game of the Tigers by sweeping a pair from Los Angeles, 2-1 and 5-1. Boston defeated Minnesota 8-2 in the first game but the Twins won the second 10-5. Baltimore beat Chicago 8-2 in their first game, with the White Sox winning the second 7-1.

Both Cleveland decisions were gained by relief pitchers. Dick Stigman, making his first appearance after being carried on the disabled list, pitched one-hit ball in four innings of relief, to register the first-game victory. Barry Latman, who surrendered the tying run in the eighth, pitched 1 1-3 innings of relief in the nightcap to gain his sixth victory.

Second baseman Danny O'Connell helped Washington righthander Joe McClain gain his sixth victory, driving in three runs with a single and two doubles in the opener. Steve Boros drove in Detroit's winning run in the second game with a bases-loaded single in the 11th. The Tigers smashed seven home runs in the twin bill. Norm Cash hit his 15th and 16th in the first game and added his 17th in the nightcap.

Home runs were responsible for the Yankee victories. Yogi Berra smashed two in the first game for both Yankee runs. Roger Maris hit his 19th and 20th in the nightcap and Mickey Mantle hit his 18th. Right-handers Ralph Terry (4-0) and Roland Sheldon (3-2) were the winning pitchers.

Chuck Estrada of Baltimore stifled the White Sox with three hits in the opener, one until two out in the ninth. Ronnie Hansen drove in three Oriole runs with three singles. Billy Pierce hurled a six-hitter and first baseman Roy Sievers got four hits and three RBIs in the White Sox second game victory.

Rookie Don Schwall pitched his fifth Red Sox victory without a defeat although he had to leave in the seventh inning of the first game because of a muscle spasm in his back. Two home runs by Don Buddin and one by Jackie Jensen accounted for all Boston's runs. Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison homered and drove in three runs apiece as the Twins won only their third game in the last 20.

3 Homers Enable Pirates To Sink Giants, 8-4

By JOE REICHLER

Cincinnati swept into first place Sunday in the National League, sweeping a doubleheader from St. Louis 6-2 and 9-3. The twin triumphs put the Reds four percentage points over Los Angeles.

The Dodgers gave up ground grudgingly, defeating Philadelphia 6-3 in their single game. It was the Dodgers' sixth straight triumph over the Phillies.

Pittsburgh downed the third-place San Francisco Giants 8-4 and Milwaukee was held to a split in its doubleheader with Chicago. The Braves won the opener 8-4 but lost the second 5-3.

Freese was the batting star of the Reds' double triumph over St. Louis. The third baseman hit a two-run homer in the first game, his 12th of the season, and drove in four runs in the second game with a pair of singles. With the score tied at 3-3 in the eighth, Freese slammed a bases-loaded single off reliever Lindy McDaniel to complete the Reds' sweep. Rookie Hunt pitched an eight-hitter in the opener for his sixth triumph.

The Dodgers Sandy Koufax pitched his sixth consecutive victory, all games complete, with a five-hitter against the Phillies. Wally Moon helped him with a home run, his 14th, and a run-scoring single. Lee Walls drove in all Philadelphia runs with a three-run homer.

A four-run second inning, at the expense of Billy Loes, and three home runs—by Smoky Burgess, Bob Skinner and Rocky Nelson — against Jim Duffalo in the third, was more than enough for Vern Law to pick up his third Pittsburgh triumph. Law was relieved by Bob Friend after he had been clipped for a home run by the Giants' Matty Alou.

Richie Ashburn's two-run triple for Chicago was wasted in the opener but in the second game, he hit a two-run single that accounted for the winning runs, giving the Cubs their split with the Braves. Warren Spahn, pitching two scoreless innings in relief, was credited with his seventh victory of the season and the 295th of his career in the opener. Catcher Joe Torre drove in the winning run in the ninth but Spahn made sure by adding a three-run homer.

Archie Lining Up Slate In Europe

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Old Archie Moore, co-owner of the world light heavyweight title, humorist, philosopher and actor, will take his varied act to Europe this summer for a series of bouts that may include as a climax, a $1-million fight with Ingemar Johansson.

The Methuselah of the ring and his agent, Jack (Doc) Kearns, outlined Archie's plans following the champion's lop-sided decision over inept Giulio Rinaldi at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

"Doc and I are going to tour the Scandivavian countries, fighting a few exhibitions, and maybe a couple of 10-round fights," said Archie today. "Then we'll see what we can stir up."

Kearns had been in communication with Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlquist before the Rinaldi fight and he has most arrangements set for the trip.

A remarkably alert fellow himself at 77 or so, Kearns said he may leave Wednesday for Stockholm to nail things down. He said he planned three or four fights for the 44-plus Moore, leading up to a title defense against Lennart Risberg, if the young Swede gets by Willie Pastrano of Miami Beach in Stockholm, July 2, and then Johansson, the former world heavyweight champion.

"If we get past Johansson, we might wind up with Floyd Patterson again." (Moore was knocked out by Patterson in 1956 for the vacant heavyweight title).

How about Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, the NBA's light heavyweight champion?

"If they come up with the right kind of money, about $100,000 or so, we'd fight him or anybody."

Moore knocked out Johnson in the 14th round Aug. 11, 1954, and has beaten him five times in six fights.

Archie, in his first defense of the 175-pound crown in 22 months, had one streak broken. He had flattened the last six of his title opponents.

Going the distance was the only feat to Rinaldi's credit, outside of his prodigious ability at the dining table. The 26-year-old Italian looked like a rank amateur against a sub-par Moore. After gaining the lead through the first four rounds against the slow starting champion, the young husky from Anzio showed nothing but gameness and a post-fight appetite.

Moore chopped up his wild-swinging, bewildered rival with an assortment of blows. At the finish Giulio was bleeding from cuts around both eyes and from a possibly fractured nose.

The flat-bellied champion was 174½ pounds to Rinaldi's 173¾.

A crowd of 9,500 paid $46,269 although the fight was telecast locally as well as nationally. With TV paying $150,000 Archie received $100,000 and Rinaldi $25,000.

Dickey Gives Up 4 Hits, Fans 14 To Blank Salem

Righthander Jim Dickey, rounding into top form for a tryout with the Minnesota Twins later this week in Minneapolis, hurled a neat four-hit shutout which allowed the East Liverpool Cox-Merchants to post a 6-0 victory over Salem, Sunday in the Quaker City.

Dickey, working a good fast ball and a sinker, struck out 14 Salem batters over his nine inning performance. He allowed three walks.

East Liverpool is a half game out of first place with a 7-1 mark since its game earlier last week was rained out. East Palestine posted two victories this past week, an 8-3 win over Negley and 3-0 over Leetonia. The Palestine nine has an 8-1 record. In one other game Sunday, Columbiana whipped Negley, 22-11.

Cox-Merchants backed Dickey with an eight-hit attack and only one error was committed in the field.

The 12-year-old pitcher fanned 15 batters and only walked two in his seven-inning stint. His teammates backed him up with nine hits and played flawless baseball behind him.

Cashdollar also helped his own cause with a double and single while Roger Shroades clubbed a double and a pair of singles.

Moore knocked out Johnson in the 14th round Aug. 11, 1954, and has beaten him five times in six fights.

Archie, in his first defense of the 175-pound crown in 22 months, had one streak broken. He had flattened the last six of his title opponents.

Going the distance was the only feat to Rinaldi's credit, outside of his prodigious ability at the dining table. The 26-year-old Italian looked like a rank amateur against a sub-par Moore. After gaining the lead through the first four rounds against the slow starting champion, the young husky from Anzio showed nothing but gameness and a post-fight appetite.

Moore chopped up his wild-swinging, bewildered rival with an assortment of blows. At the finish Giulio was bleeding from cuts around both eyes and from a possibly fractured nose.

The flat-bellied champion was 174½ pounds to Rinaldi's 173¾.

A crowd of 9,500 paid $46,269 although the fight was telecast locally as well as nationally. With TV paying $150,000 Archie received $100,000 and Rinaldi $25,000.

Dickey Gives Up 4 Hits, Fans 14 To Blank Salem

Righthander Jim Dickey, rounding into top form for a tryout with the Minnesota Twins later this week in Minneapolis, hurled a neat four-hit shutout which allowed the East Liverpool Cox-Merchants to post a 6-0 victory over Salem, Sunday in the Quaker City.

Dickey, working a good fast ball and a sinker, struck out 14 Salem batters over his nine inning performance. He allowed three walks.

East Liverpool is a half game out of first place with a 7-1 mark since its game earlier last week was rained out. East Palestine posted two victories this past week, an 8-3 win over Negley and 3-0 over Leetonia. The Palestine nine has an 8-1 record. In one other game Sunday, Columbiana whipped Negley, 22-11.

Cox-Merchants backed Dickey with an eight-hit attack and only one error was committed in the field.

No-Hit Game Recorded By 12-Year-Old

Dave Cashdollar, Lawrenceville righthander, became the first hurler to pitch a no-hitter in the newly formed South Side Hot Stove League when he turned in his perfect performance with an 8-0 shutout over Frankfort Springs Saturday.

The 12-year-old pitcher fanned 15 batters and only walked two in his seven-inning stint. His teammates backed him up with nine hits and played flawless baseball behind him.

Both Sides Feel Four-For-Four Trade Will Help

CHICAGO (AP) — Bleacher managers were full of opinion today but more solid evidence was needed to decide whether the Chicago White Sox or Kansas City Athletics got the better of a four-for-four player swap.

The field managers, however, expressed satisfaction over the trade that sent pitchers Ray Herbert and Don Larsen, third baseman Andy Carey and outfielder Al Pilarcik from Kansas City to Chicago for pitchers Bob Shaw and Gerry Staley and outfielders Wes Covington and Stan Johnson.

Hogan Believes 284 Or 285 Should Capture U.S. Open

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — The magic number in the U.S. Open will be 284 or 285, according to four-time open winner Ben Hogan, who took the 1951 crown at Oakland Hills here with a 287 in 1951.

Hogan, one of the many top golfers here early for the 72-hole event which begins Thursday and runs through Saturday, qualified his prophecy, however, with, "That's entirely dependent on weather conditions and the difficulty of the pin placements. We had favorable weather conditions all three days in 1951."

Hogan was appreciative of the changes that have been wrought at Oakland Hills since his 1951 triumph.

"The course is magnificent," he said Sunday. "They have made a few changes that have eliminated the unfairness of the course in 1951. They have widened the fairways as well as cutting off half of the left trap on No. 10 fairway and eliminating the pot bunker in the middle of No. 11 fairway."

Hogan is one of 150 contestants battling for some $60,000 in prize money over the 6,907 yard, par 70 Oakland Hills layout. The winner will get $14,000, the runner-up, $7,000 and the third placer, $5,000.

Doug Higgins of Fort Worth, Tex., will drive the first ball in the open.

3 Experienced U.S. Golfers To Bid For British Amateur

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) —Three veteran American golfers who know how to play the winds of Scotland just as well as the locals were back on their old stamping ground today for the start of the British Amateur championship.

With years of experience behind them they were out to emulate the example of another wily American veteran, Bob Cochrane, who carved his way into the final of the championship last year.

Big Jimmy McHale, a Philadelphian with the shoulders of a Scottish crag; Peter Grant, the jovial hitter from Phoenix, Ariz., and John Penrose, the dedicated golfer from Miami, were keeping a date with the championship they dream about winning. All of them are in their 40s.

McHale, a former Walker Cup player, arrived too late even to have one practice round on the 6,875-yard Turnberry course.

He played five times before in the amateur championship and reached the semi-finals in 1952.

And as soon as the word went around these wind swept hills and gullies that McHale was back, the locals started measuring him up as a man who can pull off a few upsets.

Penrose has played in six British Amateurs, once reaching the quarter-finals. Grant, who once got as far as the fifth round, is back for the sixth time.

Twenty-six Americans were among the entries. Late scratchings were expected to cut the total number of players to about 200 before the first pair teed off.

The two golfers who reach next Saturday's final will have to play seven rounds of 18 holes before going into the 36-hole play-off.

Joe Carr, the lithe, 39-year-old Irishman who hits the ball out of sight, is defending the title he has won three times.

Giovenco's Loft Wins 400-Mile Pigeon Race

The seventh race of the East Liverpool Homing Pigeon Club went to Victor Giovenco's loft Sunday. The race was flown from Terra Haute, Ind.

Pat Connor's loft was second and Ben Glogo's loft third.

The winning time was 8 hours, 13 minutes and 49 seconds over the 400-mile distance.

The next race will be flown from Xenia on June 26.

Skyline Conference Officially Breaks Up

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The Skyline Conference officially broke up here Sunday, paving the way for four of its eight member schools to pursue a more ambitious athletic future in a new league.

The long-rumored breakup becomes effective June 30, 1962, although football schedules will be played through 1963.

Thomas' Attitude Upsets Leaders In Meet Boycott

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The director of the organization that led 20 Negro athletes out of the Track Meet of Champions said he was never able to fully convince high jumper John Thomas he was doing the right thing.

"We never did convince Thomas," Eldrewey Stearnes, director of the Progressive Youth Association, said Sunday night. "He had some element of brainwashing behind him that we never did completely overcome."

Thomas, world record holder in the high jump, and 19 other Negroes refused to take part in the track meet Friday night because of what they called segregated seating for spectators.

Stearnes, a 27-year-old law student at Texas Southern University here, organized the Negro association a year ago to protest segregation at public places in Houston. He called Thomas an insult to his race before the athlete withdrew.

Stearnes said he called on Negro leaders throughout the country to encourage the track men to withdraw.

"Jackie Robinson and some of the others sent letters," he said. Stearnes said the president of Tennessee A&I—where Ralph Boston, record breaking high jumper is a student—advised Boston not to compete.

Both Sides Feel Four-For-Four Trade Will Help

CHICAGO (AP) — Bleacher managers were full of opinion today but more solid evidence was needed to decide whether the Chicago White Sox or Kansas City Athletics got the better of a four-for-four player swap.

The field managers, however, expressed satisfaction over the trade that sent pitchers Ray Herbert and Don Larsen, third baseman Andy Carey and outfielder Al Pilarcik from Kansas City to Chicago for pitchers Bob Shaw and Gerry Staley and outfielders Wes Covington and Stan Johnson.

Hogan Believes 284 Or 285 Should Capture U.S. Open

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — The magic number in the U.S. Open will be 284 or 285, according to four-time open winner Ben Hogan, who took the 1951 crown at Oakland Hills here with a 287 in 1951.

Hogan, one of the many top golfers here early for the 72-hole event which begins Thursday and runs through Saturday, qualified his prophecy, however, with, "That's entirely dependent on weather conditions and the difficulty of the pin placements. We had favorable weather conditions all three days in 1951."

Hogan was appreciative of the changes that have been wrought at Oakland Hills since his 1951 triumph.

"The course is magnificent," he said Sunday. "They have made a few changes that have eliminated the unfairness of the course in 1951. They have widened the fairways as well as cutting off half of the left trap on No. 10 fairway and eliminating the pot bunker in the middle of No. 11 fairway."

Hogan is one of 150 contestants battling for some $60,000 in prize money over the 6,907 yard, par 70 Oakland Hills layout. The winner will get $14,000, the runner-up, $7,000 and the third placer, $5,000.

Doug Higgins of Fort Worth, Tex., will drive the first ball in the open.

3 Experienced U.S. Golfers To Bid For British Amateur

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) —Three veteran American golfers who know how to play the winds of Scotland just as well as the locals were back on their old stamping ground today for the start of the British Amateur championship.

With years of experience behind them they were out to emulate the example of another wily American veteran, Bob Cochrane, who carved his way into the final of the championship last year.

Big Jimmy McHale, a Philadelphian with the shoulders of a Scottish crag; Peter Grant, the jovial hitter from Phoenix, Ariz., and John Penrose, the dedicated golfer from Miami, were keeping a date with the championship they dream about winning. All of them are in their 40s.

McHale, a former Walker Cup player, arrived too late even to have one practice round on the 6,875-yard Turnberry course.

He played five times before in the amateur championship and reached the semi-finals in 1952.

And as soon as the word went around these wind swept hills and gullies that McHale was back, the locals started measuring him up as a man who can pull off a few upsets.

Penrose has played in six British Amateurs, once reaching the quarter-finals. Grant, who once got as far as the fifth round, is back for the sixth time.

Twenty-six Americans were among the entries. Late scratchings were expected to cut the total number of players to about 200 before the first pair teed off.

The two golfers who reach next Saturday's final will have to play seven rounds of 18 holes before going into the 36-hole play-off.

Joe Carr, the lithe, 39-year-old Irishman who hits the ball out of sight, is defending the title he has won three times.

Giovenco's Loft Wins 400-Mile Pigeon Race

The seventh race of the East Liverpool Homing Pigeon Club went to Victor Giovenco's loft Sunday. The race was flown from Terra Haute, Ind.

Pat Connor's loft was second and Ben Glogo's loft third.

The winning time was 8 hours, 13 minutes and 49 seconds over the 400-mile distance.

The next race will be flown from Xenia on June 26.

Skyline Conference Officially Breaks Up

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The Skyline Conference officially broke up here Sunday, paving the way for four of its eight member schools to pursue a more ambitious athletic future in a new league.

The long-rumored breakup becomes effective June 30, 1962, although football schedules will be played through 1963.

Thomas' Attitude Upsets Leaders In Meet Boycott

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The director of the organization that led 20 Negro athletes out of the Track Meet of Champions said he was never able to fully convince high jumper John Thomas he was doing the right thing.

"We never did convince Thomas," Eldrewey Stearnes, director of the Progressive Youth Association, said Sunday night. "He had some element of brainwashing behind him that we never did completely overcome."

Thomas, world record holder in the high jump, and 19 other Negroes refused to take part in the track meet Friday night because of what they called segregated seating for spectators.

Stearnes, a 27-year-old law student at Texas Southern University here, organized the Negro association a year ago to protest segregation at public places in Houston. He called Thomas an insult to his race before the athlete withdrew.

Stearnes said he called on Negro leaders throughout the country to encourage the track men to withdraw.

"Jackie Robinson and some of the others sent letters," he said. Stearnes said the president of Tennessee A&I—where Ralph Boston, record breaking high jumper is a student—advised Boston not to compete.

2400 St. Clair Ave. at Maplewood is the location of one of the best 2 story, 4 bedroom, home in East Liverpool, and there is a 100x150 foot hedged in yard with shade trees and shrubbery that has taken years to establish. The home is 2 doors from Taft School with a full basement, gas, city water, and for those who like well water there is a well with the water to the kitchen sink. Beautiful kitchen with separate breakfast nook, large livingroom, diningroom, and glassed in sunporch. The floor coverings all stay, and there is a 4¾% GI loan balance on the home, which can be assumed if desired. At the 4¾% interest rate the owner thought a long time before accepting a transfer to Indianapolis. They love their home and the condition shows it. $20,500.00

Russia Has Big 'Boost' In Space

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It's colorless. You can't touch it. Or even smell it.

But that endless nothingness called space is suddenly a paramount matter of national policy, a vacant arena where we have suffered sharp setbacks, a void the government is worriedly hastening to fill with men, missiles and money.

So are the Russians. And the huzzahs for Cmdr. Shepard haven't chased away one persistent fact that circles overhead like a buzzard:

The Soviet Union can put far bigger loads in space than the United States can. This is an important head start, a 10-run lead in the first inning.

—:—

WHAT DOES this lead mean militarily? Does it end the space race — and perhaps us — before it has scarcely begun?

How did they get ahead? Can America catch up? Is our space program in wasteful disarray?

There are no pat answers. Expert opinions often conflict. But here is a box score of top opinion.

First the military significance.

Shortly after the Russian cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin orbited the world April 12, Rep. James Fulton (D-Pa.) a member of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics, issued a disturbing warning.

Russia's ability to orbit a man indicates, Fulton said, that in four years time they could ring the world with a system of satellites ready to dart armed destruction on the United States at a button's push.

We would only have two minutes warning, he said. We now count on 15-20 minutes notice of missile attack from our radar network.

A satellite bombardment system would require great booster power to orbit it. That the Russians have. It also would require a high order of stability in space to keep its shooting eye accurate. U. S. experts doubt Russia has such stability — now.

The United States' current Discoverer series employs the same principle as an attack satellite.

Both eject an object back to earth. So far the United States has not been able to keep up a satellite longer than three days with the stability to return accurately a capsule. And even though planes have caught several capsules in air, the target area has covered hundreds of square miles, too large for military practicality.

HOW ARE the Russians doing in this field? They returned Gagarin but so far as the United States knows, they have no comparable satellite recovery program to the Discoverer series. The Pentagon feels, at worst the United States is no less than even with them on satellite stability.

But Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, retired commander of the Army team that developed the highly successful Redstone missile, while agreeing, notes the larger the booster the greater amount of stabilizing equipment that can be carried aloft.

Dr. Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Space and Aeronautics Administration (NASA), testified recently it was debatable whether Russia would risk the great cost and uncertainties at this time of a bombardment satellite system when it's much cheaper and more reliable to use conventional ground-to-ground rockets.

In sum, the Pentagon does not fear satellite attack as an imminent threat.

But there is other military use for a satellite than bombardment.

"In times of total war," says Medaris, "anything can be a military advantage, even the ability to get more bread out of the same amount of wheat."

Accurate weather forecasting is an immense asset to modern warfare. So is air reconaissance and communications. The United States has shot up satellites that can gauge weather, photograph the earth, relay messages.

Have the Russians? The United States doesn't know. Russia hasn't said.

But their big booster advantage means they can put up much heavier, detailed and reliable equipment than we can and do it faster — if they have it. And there's no reason to think they don't.

The United States has had to miniaturize its space eyes and ears at a cost of time, money and reliability because of its lack of a big booster.

RUSSIA'S booster edge is "just as much a military advantage as being able to look down a cannon at us," Medaris says.

In fact, he added, the sky's the limit on military use of space. It is limited only by "the imagination of the user and the ability of the other side to defend against (them)."

Can the United States defend against satellites? Some day, quite possibly. Now, no.

The Air Force has under study a project called SAINT. SAINT is a bloodhound of space, a satellite shot up to trail and report on other satellites from a point about 100 feet to the rear.

Also under study is a devastating Air Force project with the kindly name of BAMBI designed to swoop down from orbit on detecting the launching exhaust of an enemy rocket and destroy it.

BAMBI and SAINT, one Pentagon official said, indicate that "the defensive uses of space for the next few years seem to be more attractive than the offensive."

Yet it is from such defensive abilities that the game could be lost.

"The lesson is that through and from space, earth can be dominated," Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert has said.

Uneasy over Russian superiority in manned space flight, Brig. Gen. Don Flickinger, head of the Air Force Life Science program, said the Soviet Union could use it "to deny space to any of our vehicles in the relatively near future."

He gave no details. But if we can develop a BAMBI, there's no reason Russia can't.

Medaris feels any space vehicle with "the discriminating capacity" of man aboard will be superior to one that lacks this. Just what value a military man on the moon might have is not yet clear.

"We can see how it could be an advantage to have a man up there," said one Pentagon spokesman, "but we're not too sure just what he could do there. We're studying it."

He added: "Military tactics always stress the value of holding the high ground. Certainly no ground is higher than space."

True. And the Russians have shot a man higher than the United States.

'Mixed Blessing' Seen For Phony Call To Firemen

Luck played a big role in preventing what could have been a seriuos fire Sunday night — all because firemen had to make a useless run to answer what turned out to be a false alarm.

Firemen said they were called to Dresden Ave. and Smith St. at 7:10 p. m. yesterday with an alarm from Box 42.

They found it was a false alarm, but rounded up two youngsters, 4 and 7, who reportedly pulled the alarm. They were referred to Juvenile Probation Officer Chris Pusey.

Returning to Central, firemen were just backing into the station when a call was received from the D. M. Ogilvie & Co. store on E. 5th St.

Firemen said the night watchman, Victor Dobbs, had discovered a short circuit in a fluorescent light fixture, which had melted the ballast and was throwing sparks into the ceiling.

Firemen urged parents to warn their youngsters about the danger of false alarms, pointing out the call sent a truck away from the station and could have led to a minor alarm turning into a major fire.

The department has been bothered by false alarms, including one in which the North Side pumper was damaged while firemen hurried to Central to fill in for the downtown truck which joined the East End firemen in answering the call.

Keep sugar syrup on hand for summer drinks. To make it, stir a couple of cups each of sugar and water over low heat until the sugar dissolves. Cover, bring to boiling and boil about five minutes. Cool and store in covered jar in refrigerator.

Two Will Attend Aquatic Courses

Two East Liverpool residents will leave Tuesday to attend a 10-day course at the Red Cross national aquatic school at Camp Lutherlyn, Pa. as representatives of the local Red Cross.

They are Miss Marilyn Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Eckert of Thompson Ave., and Joe Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Burke of Lee St.

Both Miss Eckert and Burke have participated in the water safety program here for a number of years and have completed both senior life saving and instructors aide courses. They have assisted Jack Frontone, director of the water safety program at Thompson Park pool, for several summers.

Burke was the recipient of a special letter of commendation for "prompt and heroic action in the finest tradition of American manhood" from the local Red Cross at the water festival last July. The honor was prompted by his rescue of Mary Duffy last June 29 while serving as lifeguard at the pool.

The two will receive intensive training in advanced water safety and canoeing. Upon successful completion of the course, they will be given instructor's certificates qualifying them to serve as chief instructors.

County Payroll Costs Double Within Decade

Salaries and wages paid to operate the Columbiana County government more than doubled in the decade between 1950 and 1960, State Auditor James A. Rhodes said today in Columbus in a report covering all 88 counties of Ohio.

Columbiana County's cost for salaries and wages in 1960 was $1,244,249, compared with $547,211 in 1950, Rhodes said. In 1959, salaries and wages cost $995,036, he added.

The total paid by the 88 counties last year was $116,288,999, up 14 per cent from the $101,577,411 shown in 1959, Rhodes said.
